Buron Fitts Outlines Case Against Theater Magnate

17-YEAR-OLD DANCER WILL TAKE STAND

Eunice Pringle of Garden Grove Appears in Court But Ignores Pantages Rooms Are Jammed

Girl Associate of Millionaire in Klondike Days Is Interested Spectator

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—(UP)—The state of California today took its first step in an effort to imprison Alexander Pantages, once an Alaskan fortune-hunter but now a millionaire theater magnate, when District Attorney Buron Fitts outlined the case of Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old dancer, who charges she was attacked by the show man.

The young district attorney took the floor in a packed courtroom—before one of the largest and most colorful crowds that has gathered for a trial in Los Angeles since William Edward Hickman was convicted of murder two years ago. Miss Pringle, former co-ed at the University of Southern California, came to the courtroom accompanied by her parents and close friends.

Dressed in a simple navy blue outfit, trimmed with a white collar and cuffs, the girl appeared frightened at the sight of the throng which lined from the jammed courtroom doors down the hall of justice corridors.

It was Miss Pringle's first court appearance since she tearfully testified against Pantages at his preliminary hearing a month or so ago. Although she passed close to Pantages as she went to the seats reserved for her and her attendants, Miss Pringle did not glance at the man she accuses of the serious offense.

Another Woman
Another woman, said to have an interest in the Pantages case from an angle as yet cloaked in mystery, also was in chamber when the bailiff called the session to order.

In a remote corner of the room sat Mrs. Kate Rockwell, one of the most widely-known young women in the Klondike years ago when Alexander Pantages, then a youth, staked his meager savings in an effort to "make his pile" in the gold country.

Mrs. Rockwell, is now a resident of Bend, Ore., where she has lived for many years.

It was said that during the old Alaska days when Pantages came to the north to dig for gold but changed his mind and became bartender and later a theater operator, Mrs. Rockwell had an interest in his ventures.

District Attorney Fitts refused to say what, if any part, Mrs. Rockwell will play in the proceedings. "She'll be in the courtroom today," he said when he admitted to newspapermen that Mrs. Rockwell was in the city.

"And," he continued with a smile, "won't Mr. Pantages be upset when he hears about it?"

In outlining the state's case Fitts said he intended to produce eye-witnesses to the struggle Miss Pringle made to escape from Pantages "little office" on the day of the alleged attack. He also will produce four eye-witnesses to testify as to the disarrangement of Pantages' clothing after Miss Pringle

6 Fingers On Each Hand In This Town

MADRID, Oct. 3.—(UP)—There is one place in the world where the bulk of the population has six fingers on each hand and some residents have seven. Very few have five.

The place is the tiny village of Cervera Le Buitrago, in an isolated section of Madrid province.

Citizens there are so accustomed to extra fingers that they regard a five-fingered hand as abnormal. When the young men go to Madrid and are rejected by the army for "physical disability," they say it is absurd that men with only five fingers and therefore capable of less work are accepted.

Arkansas Man Favored for Post of Commander at Election Today

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—A former college professor who enlisted as a private in 1917 and rose to rank of major, today was chosen national commander of the American Legion.

A. L. Bodenhamer, of Eldorado, Ark., is the new Legion chief. He was born at Goldthwaite, Tex., and was graduated from Baylor university, at Waco.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 3.—(UP)—The gayest and most successful national convention in American Legion history will close late today with election of officers.

A. L. Bodenhamer, of Eldorado, Ark., is favored to lead the Legionnaires during the year closing at the 1930 convention at Boston. Five vice-commanders will be chosen from a long list of aspirants and other Legion leaders will be selected.

Louisville has been in carnival mood since the conventions began last Sunday. Hilarious jubilee was the order of every day and every night, climaxing Tuesday when 55,000 Legionnaires marched in a five mile parade. Hospitality of the blue grass state outdid itself and hosts joined with guests in a general merrymaking.

In the competition for drum corps, that of Frankfort Post 211 of Philadelphia won first place, with Fort Dodge, Iowa, second and Edison post, Chicago, third. The other seven corps in the final contest finished in the following order: Los Angeles, Salem, Ore., Rockford, Ill., Elvira, O., Fairbault, Minn., Kanakkee, Ill., and Long Beach, Calif.

"MA" KENNEDY LAUGHS WHEN PASTOR TAKES STAND TODAY

HEALTH EXPERT TALKS TO COMPLETE COURSE TODAY

Helen St. Albans Gives Her Third and Last Lecture This Afternoon

IF WE learn to use constructively, those cosmic laws that govern our universe, we can make our lives on this earth, what we will," declared Madame Helen St. Albans yesterday in addressing the women of this community at the second of a series of three free lectures which she is giving at the Spurgeon theater under the auspices of the Santa Ana Register.

The third and last of the series was to be given this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the subject of "Personal Magnetism."

In selecting "Worry and Nervousness: Their Cause and Effect" as her theme yesterday afternoon, Mme. St. Albans touched upon matters especially applicable to women with their finer sensibilities and nature. Preamble to this city by her fame as an authority on health and beauty, this dark-haired young woman has far exceeded the claims made for her, and has shown a knowledge and understanding of human nature and of the various problems, mental and moral as well as physical, that daily assail womankind.

Recognizing that youth is more desirable today than ever before in the world's history, and that everyone is seeking to retain or recover that enviable state, she spoke of worry as being one of its greatest enemies. "Every thought we have is registered on the face," she declared, arguing that with that knowledge, every woman should seek to make her thoughts uplifting so that the story told by the features, might be a happy one. Pointing out the body's remarkable powers of regeneration, she declared that everyone had the power to reverse their thought streams and take advantage of nature's definite laws which are back of physical rejuvenation, youth and health.

"Worry is actual death to every big constructive thing in our lives, including health, beauty and energy. In the mere matter of ex-

Shuler Acts As Attorney In Own Case

Continues Defense in Court Today in Charges of Court Contempt

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—(UP)—The Rev. R. P. "Bob" Shuler today continued his defense against a citation for contempt of court as a result of radio remarks he made during the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages.

Shuler, a fellow pastor, the Rev. Gustav Briegleb, were called before Judge Carlos Hardy, who heard Mrs. Pantages' trial, and two other superior court judges late yesterday.

After the Rev. Mr. Briegleb's sermon, in which he referred to the case, had been read to the judges, his case was taken under advisement. The pastor maintained his sermon was along general lines and not pointed at the jury in the case.

The Rev. Mr. Shuler decided to argue his own case and spurned the offer of the judges to appoint an attorney to represent him.

Shuler admitted having made speeches about Mrs. Pantages and the jury over his radio in his capacity as a minister and had not directed his utterances toward the court or jury.

He also contended that his now famous phrase "that the Pantages jury was hung and I can name the man who hung it," was qualified in the nature of a "prophecy" and did not come as a bald statement of fact.

Witnesses were called who supported both sides of this contention. Some said they thought Shuler pronounced it as a fact and others agreed it was more of a "prophecy."

Contrary to the belief of Shuler, the jury convicted Mrs. Pantages of manslaughter for the death of a Japanese in an automobile crash and she now is awaiting sentence.

PLAN FOR GRADING SCOUTS APPROVED

Boy Scout commissioners of Orange county, at a meeting here last night, approved a plan for grading troops according to their activity in Scouting and voted for Scout troops to participate in the Armistice day program in Huntington Beach, on Monday, November 11.

Tentative plans also were discussed for establishing an overnight camp for troops participating in the parade. It was pointed out that with an overnight stay in the host city the boys would be in better condition to take part in the parade and that it would insure appearance of the troops on time.

LABOR PREMIER OF ENGLAND TO LAND FRIDAY

Ramsay MacDonald Will Meet with Hoover to Discuss Naval Parity

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(UP)—J. Ramsay MacDonald, Great Britain's labor premier, arrives here tomorrow aboard the Berengaria to settle with President Hoover the method of an Anglo-American understanding on naval and related matters. He sets an historic precedent. No British premier ever undertook a similar mission.

Just now, MacDonald is by all odds the outstanding personality among the peace-time statesmen of Europe. The eyes of the continents are focused on him. America in particular is eager to see what manner of man has taken the helm in England and steered such a vigorous course. When he visited here before, he was not quite the world figure he is today.

MacDonald is a statesman extraordinary, of unique double personality. In his inflexibility and idealism, he is reminiscent of Woodrow Wilson. In his vigor and directness, he recalls Theodore Roosevelt. Yet he is not like either.

A tall, impressive man who will be 63 on Oct. 12, he has the flame of the idealist, and the practicality of the realist. He is powerful and convincing, a man who sways audiences and rules his party.

Behind his somewhat dour Scottish face, set off by his waving white hair, and the graying mustache surmounting a firm mouth, lies a light of human sympathy and understanding. Personally he is inclined to be shy; his dignity is irreproachable. He is a scholar, and has the bearing and manner of an aristocrat, while being the leader of labor.

No one has yet been permitted to grasp to its fullest the entire scope of MacDonald's plans. Enough has been seen, however, to show that he is determined to effectuate in large measure the ideals that have been growing in him for a quarter of a century—the eventual end of war, international co-operation economically and politically, and in a broad sense the universal brotherhood of man.

As labor premier in 1924, MacDonald's government was weak, hampered and short-lived. He bided his time, and this year, the party that he helped to create at the turn of the century and literally

OAKLAND TO JAPAN FLIGHT PROPOSED

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—(UP)—On his way to begin plans for an Oakland to Japan airplane flight, Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith, pilot on the famous flight of the Southern Cross to Australia, will arrive here from New York Friday.

Announcement of the projected flight for the flight to Japan was made by the flyer's brother, R. H. K. Smith, of Oakland, with whom Kingsford-Smith will visit.

Says He Sold His Bible To Obtain Food

Seattle Minister Tells of His Sinning in Suit Against Evangelist

SEATTLE, Wn., Oct. 3.—(UP)—Stripped of his reputation, forced to sell his Bible, unable to return to the pulpit, a broken man who has sinned—all by his own admission—the Rev. H. H. Clark today continued his $50,000 confession by which he hopes to obtain a verdict against Mrs. Minnie E. "Ma" Kennedy for breach of promise to wed.

And Mrs. Kennedy, with a pink rose pinned to her left shoulder, laughed vivaciously at her middle-aged alleged paramour starting his third day on the witness stand, while her attorney continued an intense cross-examination.

"I can never go back into the pulpit," Clark replied to a question by John S. Robinson.

"My reputation has been stripped from me."

"Well, who made all this public?"

"Well, she allowed it to become public. She knew that if she made a Christian settlement it would not be aired."

"What's that?"

"I mean, if she had asked my forgiveness."

Clark was questioned about the time he and Mrs. Kennedy stayed at a Seattle hotel.

Premier Is Welcomed By Hoover

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(UP)—Messages of greeting to Premier MacDonald were radioed to the S. S. Berengaria today by President Hoover and Secretary of State Stimson.

The president's message follows:

"As you near the shores of the United States I send to you the most cordial welcome not only in my own name, but on behalf of my fellow countrymen as well."

Secretary Stimson's message follows.

"I send you my heartfelt greetings on your approach to America. A sincere welcome and warmest hospitality await you."

WOOD RESIGNS IN LETTER TO GOV. C. C. YOUNG

Chief Executive Declares He Will Ask Bank Head To Reconsider

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 3.—(UP)—Governor C. C. Young today announced that he was in receipt of a letter of resignation from Will C. Wood, state bank superintendent, but that he would do everything in his power to persuade Wood to take a leave of absence and then return to the position that he has held for 20 years.

Wood himself stated that he was going to South America on a much needed vacation, accompanied by his wife and son. He said that he was going for a rest and also to study economic conditions on the neighboring continent at first hand.

He admitted that he was through with official duties in California at least temporarily, but that he would return to campaign for the governor's re-election.

Current rumors to the effect that Wood planned to go into a private banking venture have been heard for some time, and the rumors mention Ray L. Riley, state controller, as his successor as bank superintendent. Despite these rumors, Governor Young made it plain that he hoped Wood would be persuaded to rescind his resignation and take a long vacation instead.

SANTA ANA STILL ALOFT IN AIRPLANE

Must Remain in Air Until 8:22 Tonight in Order To Establish New Mark

REPORTS "ALL WELL"

Flies Low Over His Home On Balboa Island—On Gas Tank Said Empty

Vern Speich was still in the air in his Zenith biplane at 3 p. m., today. He had just passed over Newport Beach going north. He is expected to fly over Santa Ana at about 5 p. m.

FLOATING LOW over his home on Balboa Island, Vern Speich, local aviator seeking a new world's solo record for endurance flights, received smiles and signals of encouragement today from Mrs. Speich and their children as he continued droning toward the 40 hour mark in a venture that may bring Orange county its first world's continue flight record.

Several times during the day the flyer swung his plane down toward his home and received greetings as he passed up and down the coast between La Jolla and Seal Beach.

At 10:30 a. m. today Speich dropped a message at the Midway City airport, saying that one of his main gas tanks was dry. He was unable to tell, he said, how much gas remained in the other main tank. Observers in the field, however, were confident that the ship still carries sufficient fuel to carry it successfully until 8:22:51 p. m. today, when Speich will have passed the present mark by one hour.

The tail of the plane of flying low, indicating to officials of the Zenith Aircraft corporation, builder of the ship and sponsor of the flight, that the rear gasoline tank still was carrying a large load of gasoline.

The aviator is expected to fly over Santa Ana again late today.

MASONIC DRIVE

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 3.—(UP)—After a two and half hour flight over a volcano-marked course from Managua, Nicaragua, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his Pan-American party arrived at San Salvador at 10:52 a. m. today, according to advices to Pan-American airport here.

Half an hour out of Managua, the message said, Colonel Lindbergh skillfully banked the ship over a smoking volcano to permit Mrs. Lindbergh to get a snapshot of the peak.

Lindbergh expected to leave at 3 p. m. for Guatemala, and was due there at 4:45 p. m., it was said. A speed of 115 miles an hour was attained during the flight from Managua.

used by hand to maturity, came into power with assurance of at least a year of life, and a practical mandate from the public and the other parties to accomplish what it could.

Students of international affairs were brought to attention by the labor with which MacDonald tackled the problem. The wheels were set in motion almost immediately.

Anglo-American affairs were brought to a quick head. An American settlement was begun. Britain's financial demands and relations to the European powers were proclaimed at The Hague in words that stung. At Geneva, the powers were stung by Lord Curzon's demand for disarmament on land and in air as well as at sea.

Britain demanded economic cooperation and a two-year "moratorium" on tariff increases. He begged court optional clause, providing compulsory jurisdiction of the world tribunal in certain international disputes was quickly signed by Britain and her dominions.

In the midst of it all, the Palestine outbreak was quelled. Domestic problems were subordinated by foreign affairs as seemed politically expedient, since Britain's industrial stagnation and unemployment are problems that will take time to solve. Public attention was focused on foreign affairs while the ground work was laid for the needed rehabilitation at home.

The spectacular performance of Philip Snowden, the little iron chancellor of the exchequer, and Arthur Henderson, MacDonald's foreign secretary, in international politics and finance, delighted the public, kept its mind occupied, and strengthened the party. Labor undoubtedly could not be defeated in a general election just at present even if the other parties were rash enough to attempt it.

Meanwhile, J. H. Thomas, the lord privy seal, was sent to Canada to attempt to foster trade with Britain as a first step towards rehabilitation of industry in the mother country and easing of unemployment. Lord D'Abernon's trade mission was sent to South America.

All of those rapid happenings of the last few months have been more than sufficient indication of the ambitious program tackled by MacDonald in his amazingly vigorous manner.

MacDonald is a man of the people and understands their needs. He was born in the little Scottish village by Lossiemouth and made his own way to the top. In London as a young man he struggled for a time on $2.50 a week, drinking hot water instead of tea and still managing to find time to save and study. His rise was methodical and steady. He worked from the bottom just as surely as Abraham Lincoln.

SEA HORROR RELIC AFLOAT IN PACIFIC

A grim reminder of the ill-fated steamer San Juan, which went down with more than 70 of its passengers and crew, was discovered recently when the pilot house was found afloat about 120 miles south of the scene of the sinking. Bits of clothing on top indicate that one or more persons survived for several days, then chose drowning to starvation. Photo shows effort to raise pilot house by her sister ship, the Humboldt, which failed. Inset shows the wreckage as last seen, floating aimlessly.

CASE AGAINST PANTAGES TOLD TO 12 JURORS

ran screaming into a hall of the theater building, it was said. Fitts outlined the state's version of the case from the time Miss Pringle went to the theater to see about booking her dancing act on the Pantages' circuit until she emerged from the office after the asserted assault.

Cries "Blackmail"
Pantages raised the cry of "blackmail" as his trial on a charge of assaulting a 17-year-old girl continued here today.

Eunice Pringle, the complainant in the case, knew that Pantages recently had sold his theater holdings for a sum in excess of $20,000, and she hoped to get a part of the money, the defense said in its opening argument.

She made elaborate preparations to "frame" the former Klondike gold-digger and she planned a $500,000 lawsuit against him even before she went to see him the day of the asserted assault, W. L. Gilbert, defense attorney told the jury.

Gilbert's opening statement indicated that Pantages would base his entire defense on the ground that Miss Pringle intended blackmail.

The defense statement followed one by District Attorney Byron Fitts in which he said the state could and would prove conclusively and by reputable witnesses that Miss Pringle was attacked by Pantages.

He said the prosecution would show that Miss Pringle was assaulted on the day of question and that she was lured by Pantages to a "conference room" in his theater.

Fitts told the jury that Miss Pringle was seen running from Pantages' private office with her clothing torn and her hair down and that witnesses saw Pantages inside the office arranging his clothing immediately afterwards.

Fitts spared no detail as he related the state's version of the action.

Since Miss Pringle is but 17, the state can send him to San Quentin for from one to 50 years merely by proving that an assault took place.

Through the entire morning session, Miss Pringle sat quietly beside her mother. She looked frightened and demure.

Pantages, on the other hand, stirred restlessly and once corrected his attorney on the statement of a fact.

The crowd was one of the most colorful ever to attend a session here.

Chester Conklin and Myrna Kennedy represented the motion picture colony.

Pantages' two sons, Lloyd and Rodney, also were in the courtroom.

SUNSET BEACH

SUNSET BEACH, Oct. 3.—Mrs. C. M. Earl went to Moneta the first of the week to accompany to their home her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Luz, who have been spending a few days in Sunset Beach.

C. Schneider, of Pasadena, and John Horn, of Long Beach, were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sheeley this week, having come to the beach for the opening of the duck season.

Carter Dean had a very unpleasant experience Tuesday morning at 4:30 o'clock when his new motor boat sank in the canal between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets. The duck hunters, in their anxiety to get to their locations for the opening shots at the ducks, overloaded Mr. Dean's boat, with the result that the eight passengers all experienced an early morning cold dip.

J. C. Sheeley was in Los Angeles the first of the week on a business trip.

The Sunset Beach Chamber of Commerce will hold its regular meeting Saturday evening at the club rooms.

At the special meeting of the property owners on each side of the canal, which was held Sunday morning at the residence of C. M. Earl, many additional names were obtained in the petition for the widening of the boulevard. Ninety of the interested property owners have signed the petition favoring the widening of the highway, but there are still about 20 signatures to be secured.

day, repeating his appearance of yesterday, when he was observed by many residents of this city, flying at a comparatively low altitude at about 6 p. m.

At about 8 a. m. today it was estimated that Speich was using approximately eight gallons of gas per hour, with the consumption decreasing as the load of the ship grew lighter. At noon it was believed that the plane was using between seven and eight gallons of fuel per hour and that toward eight p. m. today it would have reduced its consumption to about six gallons an hour.

When the plane left the ground yesterday morning it was loaded with 400 gallons of gas in the two main tanks and carried 46 gallons in the wing tank. The flyer keeps the wing tank full at all times and it is estimated that at the last this tank would contain enough fuel to keep the ship in the air for eight hours.

At 5:30 a. m. today Speich dropped a message saying that everything was running smoothly and that the Wright Whirlwind motor was performing excellently. The motor was turning over at about 1400 to 1500 revolutions per minute at this time. The message dropped at 10:30 a. m. said that the flight was proceeding satisfactorily from the aviator's standpoint.

Preparations have been made for an enthusiastic reception at the Long Beach Municipal airport when the plane lands tonight. The field will be lighted and all officials, including those of the Zenith Aircraft corporation, will be there with Speich's family and friends.

Speich carried with him 12 sandwiches, one fried chicken, three containers of hot coffee, one of chicken broth, four quarts of distilled water, candy bars, chewing gum and fruit. He did not carry any cigarettes.

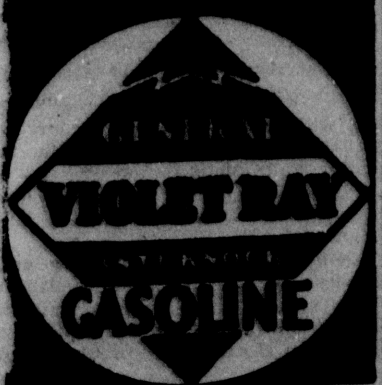

The Zenith biplane is a five passenger cabin ship in which the seats have been replaced with fuel tanks. Automatic lubrication of the rocker arms on the motor, designed and installed by Sol Spiegel, Zenith mechanic, is an original feature of the ship's equipment. Automatic lubrication is directed from the cockpit and serves to eliminate one of the chief obstacles to successful endurance flights. That the system is working smoothly was indicated today by the plane's continued and uneventful flight.

A WORD OF COMFORT

There are multitudes of different rewards in life; in general you may have one you want and you can attain the one you seek.

But you cannot secure ends which are mutually exclusive—and if more than one kind of success is reached, all but one must have been incidental.

Choose your service well to pay the price for it in the sacrifice, if need be, of everything else.

Your heart aches just now. Will you strive to still its anguish at the cost of your supreme purpose? Keep your aim true.

FIRST UNIT OF STRUCTURE TO COST $500,000

Announcement was made today from the office of John P. Williams, manager of Melrose Abbey, the beautiful all-Orange-county mausoleum, to be erected half way between Santa Ana and Anaheim, that work on the big project is now under way.

On Tuesday, according to Williams, workmen under Robert Halley Jr., architect, staked out the ground for the first unit of the mausoleum and immediately began grubbing out the trees in the walnut grove which now occupies the ground where the mausoleum will stand. Only such trees as it is necessary to remove will be taken out.

The builders of Melrose Abbey desire to preserve the natural beauty of the setting so far as possible.

In spite of the torn-up condition of the state highway south of Anaheim and the closing of this stretch of road to traffic, work on Melrose Abbey began well within the scheduled time, first announcements of the great building, made early in August, having set the starting date as within 60 days. Despite the handicap of difficult transportation to the site the builders of the great community memorial structure are determined to push operations to completion with all possible speed.

Lay Foundations Soon

As soon as the trees are out excavation will start, present plans calling for the foundations to be laid within a few days. Forms for pouring the heavy concrete walls and the stately towers that will flank the front entrance should be in place within a week or two, conditions of the highway permitting.

When seen today at his offices in the Moore building, Williams stated that Orange county will see its big mausoleum becoming a reality within the next few weeks.

Work began this week on Melrose Abbey, the biggest project of its kind ever planned for Orange county," Williams declared. "Construction will be in charge of A. R. Ward, president of our corporation. Ward has made an intensive study of mausoleums the country over during the last several years and is an authority on these institutions their construction and management. His exhaustive investigations have been invaluable to us in planning the project. His connection with our firm is a guarantee that Melrose Abbey will be the last word in up-to-date appointments and service. Ward is enthusiastic over our plans and has given a great deal of time to the arranging of details of the building, particularly the selection of designs for the beautiful windows, stained glass for which is being imported from England, and the choosing of the tinted marbles, ornamental stone and colored tiles that are to be used in finishing corridors, lobby, chapel and family rooms.

"Our architect, Robert Halley Jr., has been actively connected with the construction of mausoleums for 10 years and has evidenced his confidence in the future of Melrose Abbey and Orange county by taking a substantial financial interest in our mausoleum. We are fortunate to have secured Halley's services for Melrose Abbey as he is one of the most competent architects for this type of construction in the country.

The widespread interest created by our recent announcement of plans for a great mausoleum to preserve all Orange county has been gratifying. And this interest has taken concrete form. Many crypts in Melrose Abbey already have been sold, these covering our entire range of prices. A number of niches in the columbarium also have been engaged and our architect now is working on details of finishing and recreation for two family rooms, all the private rooms in the mausoleum being finished according to the individual tastes of the purchasers.

"There is no doubt now that by the time the first unit of the building is completed every interment space in it will be taken. This first unit will represent, with grounds and landscaping, an investment of approximately $500,000. The crypts and niches in this part of the mausoleum are near the chapel and lobby.

"A point that we intend to emphasize in our construction work is the purchase of materials locally so far as possible."

GONZALES BACK FROM TRIUMPH IN AUSTRALIA

Santa Ana friends who have watched the career of Paulo Gonzales, of this city, as a Spanish dancer, and who were aware that he, with his company, left last spring for an Australian engagement following an extended run in New York City, will be interested to learn that he has returned to San Francisco and is filling a few weeks' engagement there on the Orpheum circuit before coming to the Southland.

Gonzales, with his dancing partners, billed as "Paquita and Chiquita," received a cable in mid-ocean, as they were returning from Honolulu, asking for the San Francisco engagement, to be followed by one week in the Orpheum theater in Los Angeles, beginning Saturday, October 5, before they continue east for a 30-week tour which will take them again to New York City.

They had the experience, on their former engagement in the metropolis, of playing in the Palace theater, one of the largest in the world and Mecca of every vaudeville artist.

While in the Southland, Gonzales is expected to spend a short time in this city, where his dancing career began and where his sister and brother, Mrs. Eloy Lucero and Sol Gonzales, reside. He is an uncle of Miss Faustina Lucero, well-known young Spanish dancer.

HOME AGAIN

Paulo Gonzales, favorite with eastern vaudeville patrons, began his career as a Spanish dancer in this city, where he was active in the Orange County Choral union. He has just returned from an Australian tour and will open a week's engagement in Los Angeles next Saturday.

'COT' KERNELS PREPARED FOR GERMAN TRADE

One hundred tons of apricot kernels and 200 tons of alfalfa honey from the Imperial valley are stored in the warehouse of the Santa Ana branch of the Guggenheim company packing house, according to Manager W. M. Smith, awaiting shipping orders for export to Germany.

Both products are used in that country chiefly in bakeries, the apricot kernels, otherwise known as bitter almonds, being processed and used as flavoring and as a paste for macaroon cookies and the honey used as sweetener for the many forms of sweet pastries dear to the palates of the German people.

Thirty tons of apricot seeds were put through the machines of the Guggenheim plant each day during the apricot season, Smith said. The kernels packed in huge bags of about 220 pounds each, or 100 kilos, for export to Germany.

AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP OF NAZARENE PASTOR IS NOT RECOGNIZED IN JUGOSLAVIA

That American citizenship of a former native is not recognized in Jugoslavia has caused much interest to be manifested among the friends of the Rev. Peter Jurich in Southern California. The minister was graduated from Pasadena college and married here. He is an American citizen and returned to Jugoslavia to study conditions and to visit his people. In a letter received from him by the Rev. U. E. Harding, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene in Santa Ana, the Rev. Mr. Jurich writes as follows:

"I am sure you have read about Jugoslavia and know that the situation here is very critical. Because of the general unsettled conditions, the government is shutting out the public places, closing high schools and insisting on everyone keeping quiet and expensing no personal opinion."

"We would disregard the above difficulties and remain here, but this government does not recognize our American citizenship, because there is no treaty between the U. S. and Jugoslavia. And having left this country before rendering military service, if I am found out I will be compelled to serve in the army."

"We are leaving this city soon, going into the village among our own relatives, where we shall again sit on wood piles and in the open air, for we dare not gather an audience into a building. We shall make our last desperate effort to get the Gospel to our own relations and their neighbors. My permit expires October 25 and to renew it would incur more danger, so no doubt we will leave here by that time and be in America by the first of November."

The Rev. Peter Jurich is district manager for the System Bible Study company and upon his return it is expected that he will assume his duties as manager of the district west of the Rocky mountains.

Other prominent men in the Church of the Nazarene who plan to make a world tour of missions include the Rev. R. T. Williams, general superintendent, and the Rev. John W. Goodwin, D. D., who will sail within a few days from Seattle.

They will stop in Japan, China, Africa and the Holy Land. They will return to America next spring and are expected to bring information and inspiration that will revolutionize the foreign missionary work of the denomination, according to the Rev. Mr. Harding.

Superintendent Williams, who presided at the Nazarene assembly here, has promised to return to Santa Ana for the convention and dedication of the new Nazarene church, which it is hoped will be completed by that time.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

Women Are Free! AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

Legally, politically and socially woman has been emancipated from those chains which bound her. AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has exploded the ridiculous theory that forced the stigma of inferiority upon a sex.

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful, corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

JAMES H. ALFORD, PIONEER, SUCCEUMBS

James H. Alford, 80 years old, a resident of Orange county for the last 50 years, dropped dead at his home, near Ocean avenue, near Garden Grove, yesterday afternoon. Alford was a bachelor.

He was picking walnuts with a number of other men at the time. The body was brought to the Smith and Tutill Funeral parlors here, where funeral services will be held at a time to be announced later. Coroner Charles D. Brown announced today that he would not hold an inquest into the death.

SEAL BEACH

SEAL BEACH, Oct. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Redinger, of Porterville, spent the week end with friends in Seal Beach. Mr. Redinger was pastor of the Community Methodist church two years ago and has a great number of friends in the city. Mr. Redinger and his wife attended the Methodist conference in Long Beach the past week. Saturday evening, Mrs. O. R. S. Phares invited a number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Redinger to her home to a buffet supper. The house was decorated with ferns and dahlias. Those enjoying the evening were Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Redinger, Mr. and Mrs. Cassio and son, Charles; Mr. and Mrs. Willis Ward, Mrs. and Mrs. Hobson, Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Patterson, Mrs. Carpenter, Miss Helen Carpenter, Mrs. Glenn Crandall, Miss Doris Reed, Mrs. Cheslea, Mr. and Mrs. Putnam, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Phares and children, Betty and Buster.

The marriage of Miss Norma Haskell and Richard Wood was solemnized Saturday night at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Haskell, of Eagle Rock. Miss Haskell is well known in Seal Beach, having visited here often in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haskell. The young couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

STIMSON'S GOAT ARRIVES

"Come and do something about this goat," came a cry to Secretary of State Stimson—and it meant that William Hamilton Bones, the pet goat of Stimson while he was governor of the Philippines, had arrived in Washington despite reports that it had been deported from San Francisco. And so Private John Haley, attached to President Hoover's stables, is shown above doing that something.

In the Forbidden City" and "Old Buddha." In recounting further incidents of her eventful life, she interprets for us her native land and its colorful civilization in terms of our own manners and customs with which she is equally familiar. For it was the unique experience of Princess Der Ling to have been intimately associated with all of China's outstanding figures of the last quarter century or more and at the same time, without losing her contacts at home, to have received her education and to have spent a great deal of her life in the Western hemisphere.

She begins with her recollections as a child of six in her father's home in China, where the life about her is already half-familiar, half-strange, due to her unusual background. Charming pictures of Chinese family life are depicted in each succeeding chapter, the record of her career being carried through the days when her father was a provincial governor, a cabinet officer, and later ambassador to Japan and France. Life in several of the European capitals is graphically pictured and her selection as first lady-in-waiting to the last Chinese Empress is described in detail, as well as many of the manners and practices of the Chinese nobility.

Brilliant Picture
Throughout the book is a faithful and brilliant picture of a country of peculiar interest to every American, the whole account being doubly valuable, due to the unusual angle from which it is written.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

In "America Challenged," by Lewis F. Carr, we are given abundant food for thought. This book—from a man who has followed the plow—presents facts and conditions which are a challenge to the cult of Americanism, Progress, and Prosperity. It confronts the high priests of Prosperity with the plain facts of a situation generally unknown, unrecognized, and camouflaged for political reasons.

The author takes vigorous issue with public officials and writers who maintain that the farm problem is unimportant or that it will remedy itself. He sees in the American farm problem the continuance of the age old conflict that wrecks nations. He takes the position that the farm problem is more properly the American problem; for it lies at the root of such questions as the tariff, the merchant marine, unemployment, living standards, maintenance of peace, international banking, and the continuance of prosperity.

We are at present "a house divided against itself." Shall the family farm—the main source of our free and self-reliant national life—be suffered to pass from the picture as will surely happen under present policies? The family farm is now five billions a year away from being a going concern.

This book is a frank attempt to present the farm point of view, biased, heretical, radical though that view may seem to be. It evolves a totally new answer to the farm question, presents new reasoning, and quotes the opinions, favorable and unfavorable, of many prominent men, on the general plan it advocates.

Mr. Carr writes from a wide experience in his subject, an experience which took him from between the plow-handles into forty-seven states and Canada and Mexico, into academic halls and scientific laboratories, into the teacher's chair and the saddle of the "straw horse" manager and owner, and finally landed him in a newspaper office as special writer and alternate farm editor. He writes vigorously from first-hand information.

"A Vagabond's Provence," by Anne Merriman Peck, is the story of an artist's rambling exploration of that lovely region. The author, who is also the illustrator of the book, has spent much time visiting remote stretches of country, the lesser known towns, and out-of-the-way villages. She writes and draws with a real love of her subject, and a great sympathy for the rare charm of Provence and its people.

The tourist centers and the fashionable Riviera are lightly touched upon, both because they have already been described so many times, and also because the author's interpretation of the country and its people took her in search of places off the beaten track.

Story of Ancient Places.
The book includes the story of these ancient places, as well as sketches of village life both inland and by the sea, of peasant characters, and of amusing journeys by third class train, country bus, and peasant's cart. There is also a description of the delightful old customs and legends of the country. The story of Frederick Mistral and his fellows of the Provençal Renaissance is told in connection with the towns where they lived and worked.

In "Kowtow," the latest book by Princess Der Ling, we have a continuation of such unusual events as we found in "Two Years

ROCK GARDEN IS ESTABLISHED IN CITY PARK

ANAHEIM, Oct. 3.—A portion of the Anaheim city park, which promises to be one of the most interesting of the many lovely spots in the 20-acre tract, is the rock garden which is soon to be planted with mountain and bog plants, all native to this state.

The garden has been built and will be planted under the supervision of Rudolph Boyesen, park superintendent. Boyesen has always been interested in California flora and before joining the American forces over seas during the World war, he had a fine collection of desert plants and flowers which he sold for nearly $1000 when he left for France.

The rock garden is built of granite rocks taken from the park site.

New Face Powder Now the Fashion

Wouldn't you, too, like a face powder that will keep shine away—stay on longer—spread smoothly—do not clog the pores—and always be so pure and fine? It is made by a new French Process and is called MELLO-GLO. It is surely a wonderful Face Powder. Just try MELLO-GLO. Santa Ana Drug Co.—Adv.

When it was transformed from an orange grove into a recreation center. Work was begun on the park five years ago, Boyesen says, when the first orange tree was grubbed out.

The rock garden is located on the north side of the park near the lily ponds and is centered by a huge acia ballonia, which will furnish deep shade for the varieties requiring it. A path winds to the top of the garden and the garden will cover about 1000 square feet.

Plants were purchased from Carl Purdy, of Ukiah, who makes a specialty of growing wild flowers. Visitors to the park will see in blossom the mariposa tulip, the several varieties of fairy lanterns, calochortus albus, amabilis, amoenus and lilacinus.

The mission bell or trifloria recurva, the dog toothed violet, which the botanists call "evithronium rotundum," maiden hair fern, blue and cream camassia leichtlinii, the small mottled trillium, and the trillium which is first white, then turns to blue and to purple, the rock iris, the creeping oxalis and the brodiaea or nigger head, will be included in the collection.

The cactus garden nearby, started early this spring is thriving. All of the plants are native to California, and collected in nearby deserts. An interesting experiment has been brought to a successful conclusion in the cactus garden where a night blooming cereus has been grafted to a variety of the yucca. The grafted plant is said by Superintendent Boyesen to be a parasite in its native state in South America. Many varieties of the yucca little known to the average person are to be seen. Some of the cacti plants are now seven feet high.

Beach Chamber Sponsors Bridge

SEAL BEACH, Oct. 3.—Preliminary steps for the construction of a vehicle and foot bridge across Alamitos bay were taken here at the meeting of the chamber of commerce at the Seal cafe this week. The chamber has voted to co-operate with the Long Beach Boulevard Property Owners' association in plans for a vehicle bridge across Alamitos bay.

When the Coast highway curved away from Seal Beach it left the city off the main highway in so far as the business district is concerned. The proposed bridge across the bay will bring the Coast highway traffic back to the true coast route along the bluff overlooking the ocean at and through Seal Beach.

President J. A. Graham has named a committee to plan a local celebration committee to prepare a program for the golden jubilee of lights. The committee is composed of E. J. Hughes, A. G. Johnson and Vernon Armstrong, secretary of the chamber.

LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Oct. 3.—"Doc" Turman is ill in the Fullerton General hospital.

Roy Potes is ill in his home. Among La Habra people who attended the Methodist conference in Long Beach Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Morris, Mrs. Sarah Barber, Mrs. Jennie Cramer, Mrs. U. R. Phillips, the Rev. E. M. Sutton, the Rev. and Mrs. D. Dundas and Mrs. W. C. Marks.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glasse have left for Philadelphia to make their home. Ray H. Coombs, 48, is recovering from injuries suffered Saturday afternoon when the Shell truck he was driving was struck by a P. E. car at the crossing on Telegraph road near the Orange county line.

Mrs. Frank Tennyson has returned from a three-day stay at Long Beach with her son, Chester Jenks.

Mrs. George McWhirter sustained a broken collar bone and other cuts and bruises Sunday evening on Scott road, when the car in which she was riding collided with another car occupied by Ellison Byers and Haydon Lavell, of Whittier.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Collins, of Anaheim, who were in the car in which Mrs. McWhirter was riding, received severe cuts about the hands and body. Their two daughters, Catherine and Ellen, received minor cuts and bruises. The occupants of the other car also received cuts and bruises.

The victims of the accident were taken to the Murphy Memorial hospital in Whittier where they were given emergency treatment.

Coombs had crossed one track after stopping, and as no car was in sight and the wig-wag was not working, he started to shift gears to cross the other track when the machine was struck in the side and rear. He was thrown through the windshield and carried for a hundred yards on the truck. The fact that he was not thrown out probably accounts for the fact that he was not killed. As it was he sustained a broken bone in the left leg and a small broken bone in his forearm and scalp wounds.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning in Pomona for Mrs. R. D. Chappell, 74, mother of Mrs. Luella Swingle, of East Florence avenue.

The deceased passed away Sunday morning at the home of her daughter after several weeks' illness. She had made her home in Pomona until a few weeks ago when she came to visit in the home of her daughter here. Another daughter, Miss Grace Chappell, of Pomona, survives her.

OIL WORKER NEW ANAHEIM OFFICER

ANAHEIM, Oct. 3.—Roger Sherman has been made a member of the Anaheim police department and went on duty yesterday. Sherman is an ex-service man and has been employed in the oil fields.

Hold Funeral Of Mrs. Edna Sholes

ANAHEIM, Oct. 3.—Funeral services were held this morning for Mrs. Edna Maude Sholes, wife of Arthur Sholes, 110 South Illinois street, at the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral chapel, with the Rev. Benjamin S. Haywood, former pastor of the White Temple Methodist church, officiating. Burial was made in the Forest Lawn cemetery in Glendale.

Magnesia Best for Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically from gas, sourness and indigestion, have now discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants, and instead, follow the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful of four tablets of Bisurated Magnesia in little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisurated Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisurated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.—Adv.

Pimples on Arms and Hands. Itched Badly. Healed by Cuticura.

"My skin trouble started with small pimples on my arms and hands. They itched so badly that I could hardly keep from scratching, and my clothing aggravated the breaking out on my arms. I could hardly sleep at night on account of the irritation, and was bothered with them for two years.

"Other remedies that I tried helped some but did not heal the trouble. I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using them every day for one month I was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. M. Verna, 1364 Union St., San Diego, Calif., April 24, 1926.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25c and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. H, Malden, Mass."

STATE HISTORY OUTLINED FOR NEWPORT CLUB

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 2.—At the noon day luncheon of the Exchange club at Newport yesterday, the transferring from the twelfth to the eleventh district was discussed. As the eleventh district is comprised of Orange and San Diego county clubs, it was thought that affiliation with them would be more neighborly than to be included with the Los Angeles county aggregation.

The guests introduced were Frank Garvan of Long Beach, Benjamin Harrison of San Francisco, Joe Anderson, a boxer of Los Angeles, and Tom Price, of Alhambra.

In addressing the club at the close of dinner, Anderson said that while he did not believe that fighting as a business was conducive to the best type of citizenship, yet he was sure that taken as an amateur sport, that it tended to build up, both physically and mentally those who practiced it, to a greater extent than any other kind of sport.

Benjamin Harrison, who was the speaker of the day, divided his remarks on "California History" into two general heads: Formative—including all that happened before September 9, 1850, when California was admitted to the Union as the thirty-first state, and the stabilizing period of the next 15 years, during which time California was aroused to her responsibilities and discharged her duties to the Union.

"Frey Junipero Serra, the outstanding figure of the creative period of the state, was a Franciscan monk, and Thomas Starr King, the overshadowing personality of the second period was an Unitarian minister," Harrison said.

"Serra spent many years in quiet pastoral surroundings and finally died quietly in the country he loved, while King, in the four years of strife and turmoil covering his residence here, saved a great state to the Union, against a preponderance of secession sentiment, and the gold of California, turned the balance toward the Union side at a time when it was wavering. California soil has been under many flags, Spanish, Mexican, Russian, English, the Bear flag, and the Stars and Stripes.

"Originally settled by Spanish, during the time of the padres, later by Mexicans, when the Mexican government took over control of the pueblos, the Russians, when they built the Pacific coast, the English at a trading post through which they desired to establish a claim, an independent state which hoisted the bear flag at San Bernardino in 1846 during the time when there was no government functioning; and then the Stars and Stripes.

"At the close of the Mexican war, the administration of law was of a most uncertain nature. The country ran itself and it was not until 1849 when a constitutional convention was called that resulted in the adoption of a constitution, patterned on that of Iowa, that chaos began to disappear. Senators and representatives were elected but admission into the Union could not be brought about until Sept. 9, 1850.

In 1850, Thomas Starr King accepted a call to a pastorate in San Francisco. Already noted as a lecturer from Boston to Chicago, King brought to California a fund of eloquence and patriotism badly needed in the new state. More than 60 per cent of the people were from the southern states, and with only seven of the 57 newspapers in the state championing the cause of the Union, secession was rampant and loudly expressed.

"Principally through the tireless efforts and the magnetic eloquence of King, the state was held to its allegiance and furnished over a fourth of the $5,000,000 needed to start the sanitary commission, which was the immediate predecessor of the Red Cross."

FICKLENESS DOES IT
LONDON, Oct. 1.—(UP)—Over 2000 marriage romances have been shattered here in a year before the ceremony was completed. This number greatly exceeds that of former years and a London registrar says: "A variety of reasons are given, but the last minute decisions are mainly due to a trivial tiff."

EXCESS ACID SICKENS—GET RID OF IT!

Sour stomach, indigestion, gas. These are signs which usually mean just one thing: excess acid. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. Too much acid is making food sour in the stomach and intestines.

The way to correct excess acid is with an alkali. The best form of alkali for this purpose is Phillips Milk of Magnesia. Just take a spoonful of this harmless, almost tasteless preparation in a glass of water. It works instantly. The stomach becomes sweet. You are happy again in five minutes! Your heartburn, gas, headache, biliousness or indigestion has vanished!

Know Phillips Milk of Magnesia and you're through with crude methods forever. It is the pleasant way—the efficient way to alkalize the system; to relieve the effects of over-acidity.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia has been standard with doctors for over 30 years. 25c and 50c bottles at all drug stores. Be sure you get the genuine.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. registered trade mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875—Adv.

Open Letter To One of the Board of Supervisors

To the Citizens of Orange County:

Below will be found a copy of an open letter which is self-explanatory. This letter could as appropriately be written to any one of the board simply by substituting other names in the place of Chapman. It applies to all. (Editor.)

October 2nd, 1929.

C. H. Chapman,

Santa Ana, California.

Dear Mr. Chapman:

Some have asked me, Mr. Chapman, why I am directing my letters to you personally, why not to some other member of the board. Mr. Chapman, I want to have this clearly before you. I am directing them to you personally, as I said in my first letter, because it is the only way I can get the matter before you personally, for you and the other members of the Board of Supervisors get into a secret "huddle," and when you are through you all speak and act alike, and the reason I am writing to you rather than anyone else is because I have been better acquainted with you. I have had up until this time unbounded confidence in you personally. You are living here in this district. You are our supervisor, and while our paper reaches thousands of homes in each district, yet you are our representative in this particular place where the paper is published.

Now, Mr. Chapman, as an employer, do you think that the findings were fair to me or to the citizens or to the Mexicans? You knew I was furnishing information for you as an employer, didn't you? You knew full well that The Register was not attempting to prosecute, didn't you? Don't you think you ought to have been interested enough to take the facts that we gave you and continue further investigations? Do you not think, Mr. Chapman, that you ought at least to have found out what this man was getting money for, and how he was getting it, when you had him on the stand before you as a witness? Don't you think, Mr. Chapman, that this Baptist minister to the Mexicans, who gave that testimony concerning the intimidation, ought to have been questioned on other things that he knew? Did you ever do it? Did you ever talk with him or to the Methodist minister to the Mexicans or to any other man who was looking after their welfare as to the facts that they knew in this case? Have you made any effort to learn them whatever?

Mr. Chapman, do you really think that this man Carrillo, ought to have been allowed to sell his influence with public officers to any person anywhere, much less these poor Mexicans? Do you not think that of all people that should be protected from this kind of thing, when you knew that he had exceptional opportunities to get money from them, the Mexicans should have been? Do you think that a man who is paid $2100.00 per year by the county should sell his influence with other people who are paid by the county? Do you think that it was right, and that your servant should be continued who had accepted pay from a Mexican to see his wife who was in jail? Mr. Chapman, isn't that a privilege that is granted to anyone? You noted the particular object he had to see his wife about, didn't you? The testimony showed that he wanted to see his wife to tell her about their sick child, didn't it? Mr. Chapman, supposing a Mexican came to you, whose child was sick, and the mother of that child was in jail, and he wanted to see her and tell her about it, would you charge him money for letting him in the jail? Do you think that the jailer would have charged him money for it?

Do you realize what $2.00 is to this Mexican? Do you realize that he had to work probably more than half a day for Mr. Carrillo, who is your employe, in order to get the privilege to see the mother of his child, who was in jail, and tell her that the child was sick? Mr. Chapman, don't you think that you should consider yourself and your fellows the guardians of these people? Do you think this is a square deal? Do you mean to tell the public that you keep this man "for the good of the Mexicans"? Is it acting in the spirit of guardianship to permit them to have money extracted from them in this manner? Is it fulfilling the purpose for which you and I are here to force them to pay from their pittance, money for things that you and I are furnished from society itself?

Do you not think, Mr. Chapman, that at least these folks should be paid for their attendance at this hearing? Is it right after this man has worked half a day to pay Carrillo, your employe, to let him see his wife in jail, to tell her about their child's sickness, then to make this same man lose another day's work, $4.00, in order to tell you about it? Then, Mr. Chapman, do you think it is right for you after you have heard these stories, to say you are going to keep this man "for the good of the Mexicans," and never offer a word of rebuke? When I asked you if you would not see that provision was made to reimburse these Mexicans for their loss for being there, why did you turn it over to the District Attorney? Why, Mr. Chapman, didn't your board go in and investigate this on their own responsibility, and save these Mexicans this loss of labor?

Mr. Chapman, was that report that the board made the actual and honest expression of your conscientious judgment? Do you think it was right to permit a report to go out endeavoring to pretend that you thought that this was a criminal prosecution and that the accused was not convicted? You knew that this was no criminal prosecution, didn't you? You knew it was just information for an employer, didn't you? Why, then, did you plan with these other men in trying to give the opposite impression?

Did you really believe, Mr. Chapman, personally, that this man who is selling influence to keep people in or out of jail, influence to get them in jail to see members of their families, and who has a pad of driver's permits that he is selling for $2.00 apiece, should be kept in a position where he can do these things "for the good of the Mexicans"? If you do not believe that such a man should be employed by you, and continued in your employ, why didn't you say so? Mr. Chapman, if you did believe it, can you square this with any principles of ethics or justice or civil government? Do you think, Mr. Chapman, that you have the right to expect your friends, and I have considered myself one of them, to have to stand for these things in order to support you? Isn't this putting friendship, political and every other kind, to a test which is greater than friendship should bear?

Do you not think, Mr. Chapman, that the attitude which you have taken here will have a most shameful influence upon our Mexican population? Would you, Mr. Chapman, if you had it to decide for yourself, would you tell these Mexican people that for "their good" you were keeping a man in your employ and paying him $2100.00 per year that couldn't perform a kindly office for them except for money? Would you tell them that it was right for a man to issue lying permits and to sell influence? If you wouldn't do this personally, why did you join with the others in doing it?

Some of these questions, it seems to me, should be answered. The "why" of this is getting bigger in our mind as we contemplate it.

Can you answer these questions?

Yours truly,

J. F. BURKE.

17 Laguna Beach Streets Slated For Improvements

SEWER SYSTEM PROMISED FOR BEACH SECTION

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—Sewerage again claimed the attention of the city council Wednesday evening when a representative of Dr. Walter M. Dickey, state health official, urged action in Arch Beach section and exacted a promise from the council that steps would immediately be taken toward installing sewer lines. Petitions for grading and filling of 17 streets on the cliffs from Bant canyon to cliff drive, with curbs and gutters of concrete, were approved. Other street matters were Blumont street improvement and naming of certain streets.

W. W. Chandler of the county health office, accompanied by a state representative, appeared before the council to urge Arch Beach sewer action. Instances were related of cesspool seepage. That the state office might be compelled to require action on many individual sewer systems, and the danger of sand pollution along the beach were pointed out. The expense that would be incurred by individuals, and which would be of no value when a general system is installed, was given as one of the reasons for taking action now. The council concurred in the general remarks, and promised to give the state department a letter outlining the policy to be followed.

Question concerning city or county ownership of a 65 foot strip paralleling a portion of Cliff drive east of the highway was raised by Ed Hofe when the cliffs improvement petitions were read. It was his contention that it remains county property a view which City Engineer A. J. Stead thought might be correct as indicated by maps. Mr. Hofe believed the county could be induced to deed this to the city and suggested that a transfer of property be made which would permit placing the library on the point at the junction of Cliff drive and Coast boulevard, almost opposite the art gallery. Without committing itself on the matter, the council considered the feasibility of it and instructed the engineer and attorney to inquire into the title of the strip in question.

The engineer was instructed to go ahead with plans and specifications for the improvements asked for the 17 streets on the cliffs, the usual checking formality being dispensed with.

Blumont street, near the school house, was accepted on affidavits.

THE WORLD AT ITS WORST—ACCUMULATED MAGAZINES

(Copyright, 1929, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.) 10-3

BEACH STREETS C. OF C. TOPIC FRIDAY NIGHT

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—Three subjects of civic interest are scheduled by Dr. Francis E. Callister, president of the chamber of commerce, to come before that civic body Friday evening.

The first of these is the consideration of an effort to have the $1.25 monthly service charge made by the gas company abated, the move having been initiated by the Realty board Tuesday.

The second matter expected to be discussed is the street improvement plan touched on at a previous meeting for the Arch Beach section of the city. With petitions bearing enough signatures to place them before the city council, the cliffs section has the prospect of improved thoroughfares. That the same effort may be made in Arch Beach is the purpose of bringing up the matter Friday before the chamber of commerce.

Discussion of sewers, one of the questions which has had more attention than any other of a civic nature is scheduled. Though the business district and the cliffs are sewered, Arch Beach is not, and many complaints have been made regarding conditions and stressing the needs of sewers. Though the project was opposed about a year ago by residents, it is thought that it may now be presented in a manner to gain support.

MAIL SERVICE AT LAGUNA IMPROVED

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—Improved mail service is being enjoyed today according to Postmaster E. S. Norton. Heretofore the morning mail reached Los Angeles just a little too late to be taken out by carriers on the same day, laying over until the next morning. Local patrons of the office have their mail nearly an hour earlier than formerly, another benefit pointed out by Mr. Norton. No change is made in afternoon mails.

An effort is to be made by a committee from the chamber of commerce to get an additional incoming and outgoing mail daily, made possible, it is claimed, by additional stage service now available.

ATTENDANCE GAINS IN BEACH SCHOOL

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—Increased attendance and improvements in the grounds and school building are reported by G. K. Bingham, principal. Half a dozen pupils entered this week. One pupil, Graham Hudson, was transferred to Pasadena, and advanced half a grade in that city.

Three dozen chairs for small children have been received and are in place in the primary rooms. The popularity of the school cafeteria, started this season under the direction of the P. T. A. and in charge of Mrs. Ruth Hansen, continues.

Nature study in the first six grades was started this week, with gladiolus bulbs distributed to the pupils to be planted and reported on later. The bulbs were given by Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston, president of the school board. Unique pencils were given to the children by H. Y. Smith.

The road between the school house and the frame buildings has been oiled and graveled and the house for the janitor, Joe H. Scudamore, is almost ready for occupancy.

The first get-together of teachers will be held Friday evening, with Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Bingham as hosts.

Photo Studio For Spanish Village

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 3.—George A. Alden, of Puente, will establish a photographic studio in the Spanish village. Alden has rented office space in the Pay building on the State highway and will outfit it for a modern studio, with an up-to-date dark room. Alden and his wife will move to San Clemente next week, having rented a home here.

CONSTRUCTION ACTIVITY AT NEWPORT BEACH INCREASES FIRST NINE MONTHS OF YEAR

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 3.—Building in this city for the first nine months of 1929 was considerably above that for the corresponding period of 1928, with September's figures higher than September of last year, according to a report made by Gene Fenelon, city building inspector.

Building for September this year amounted to $26,550, as against $20,445 for the same month last year. The total for the first nine months of this year was $335,135, compared with $395,010 for the same period of 1928.

The first seven months of this year showed a higher total than the entire 12 months of 1928, and the 12 months of the present year are expected to mount to around $200,000 over all of last year.

The increase this year was largely due to the large number of new residences. Balboa island alone has had more than 100 new buildings this year, and during recent weeks Balboa peninsula has shown signs of a similar building boom.

A. B. Rousseau, Balboa and Santa Ana realty operator, sold 126 lots in the Peninsula tract without any extensive campaign, mostly to individual buyers residing here. He purchased them in a block from the Blankenhorn syndicate. Many of the new buyers have already started building.

The proposed new high school is also expected to stimulate building throughout the harbor district, particularly in Newport Heights.

NEW S. A. CANYON ROAD DISCUSSED

PLACENTIA, Oct. 3.—Members of the road committees of the Brea and Yorba Linda Chambers of Commerce were guests at the regular meeting of the Placentia Chamber of Commerce Tuesday and the chief topic for discussion was the proposed new Riverside-Los Angeles highway through the Santa Ana canyon.

The subject was introduced by Ed Peterkin, chairman of the road committee of the Brea Chamber of Commerce, who stated that the Brea representatives had been approached by Riverside in regard to this matter. The proposed road will cut off six miles between Riverside and Los Angeles by coming through the Santa Ana canyon, through Yorba Linda and join the new Cedar street highway at Brea. Los Angeles county already has a right of way to the Orange county line and Orange county has the right-of-way to Brea.

A discussion of the junior college situation followed. A request to join in the Armistide day parade at Huntington Beach was turned over to the publicity committee.

Among the representatives from Brea were the president of that chamber, H. M. Massey; Ed Peterkin, Barney Oldfield, William Culp and Mike Hogue. From Yorba Linda were President Chas. Vernon, Ernest Walker, H. A. MacClatchie and George Kellogg.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL PLANS MADE

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—Recommendation for more rope on life buoys, plans for the annual roll call in November and minor matters came before the local branch of the Red Cross at the meeting held Tuesday.

The city is being districted for the roll call, with captains for the various districts. In recognition of the services of Miss Luella Marshall in giving swimming lessons, and George Griffith and Graeme Smith in first aid and life saving instruction, the secretary, Miss Alice Parker, was instructed to write each a letter of instruction. The three took Red Cross instructions at Coronado Beach in July, sent by the Red Cross here.

Party Planned By Nazarene Society

MIDWAY CITY, Oct. 3.—A committee has been appointed by the Nazarene Young People for a Halloween dance at the Social club October 26. There will be a dance at San Clemente each Saturday. The Men's club is staging one this Saturday.

Collegiate frolic is set for October 12, the San Clemente Fire department holding one October 19.

Tom Murphree Jr., has appointed Trafford Hutson, a director, to take charge of the entertainment for next Tuesday's meeting. Win Keel, Russell Tyree and Barney Arnold compose the athletic committee.

On Monday evening a beach party and waltz beach given by the Nazarene Young People near the Huntington Beach pier was attended by 31 young people and at the conclusion of the social evening, when games were played and a lunch served, a song service and testimony meeting was held.

Relief From Curse Of Constipation

A Battle Creek physician says "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause." But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderly tablet. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Mater's Drug Store.—Adv.

LAGUNA BEACH WATER OFFICE IS COMPLETED

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—Final removal of the offices of the Laguna Beach County Water district, the city engineer and the city clerk from quarters on Ocean avenue to the new building of the water district on Third street is expected to be completed by the end of the week. Delay has been occasioned because of phones and lights not being installed.

The new building, though not a large one, will be one of the most attractive in the city. It is built in the style of a dwelling, with but little of the usual commercial atmosphere, and is flanked by a lawn and a small sunken garden on one side.

The building itself has large well lighted offices, fireplaces, draughting room, A directors' room is reached by a stairway from the outside and one from the inside, so that those employed in the offices need not disturb.

The building was designed by Aubrey St. Clair and erected on contract by Ropp & Mackey. Every feature of it was given careful attention so that it would best serve the purpose for which it is intended.

It is a hobby of George Wilding, manager to have birds and flowers in the offices, so that the home-like atmosphere implied by the exterior design is carried out on the inside as well.

'QUESTIONS OF MAN' OF 40' IS SUBJECT

3 Plays Given By Missionary Body

STANTON, Oct. 3.—About 80 were in attendance of the mother and daughter banquet at the Alamitos Friends church Tuesday evening, sponsored by the Ladies' Home and Foreign Missionary society of the church.

Miss Edna Baumgartner, with Lena Schroeder, at the piano, led a mother and daughter song. There were three pantomime plays. The first was "Elder Lamb's Donation." Mrs. F. Baumgartner read the story. A street scene was well acted as Mrs. Kerns read the story. Mrs. Broady gave a burlesque reading.

SAN CLEMENTE, Oct. 3.—The San Clemente Chamber of Commerce has opened a drive to lessen traffic accidents in and near the Spanish village. A committee, headed by Dan Mulherson, president, is seeking data on the San Clemente hospital, physicians and state, county and city officials in and near this city to ascertain the cause and find means to stop the increasing number of accidents.

At the last meeting of the board of directors John Riley, owner of Riley's Waffle house, was named to succeed O. M. Berg, deceased, on the board of directors. Plans were launched to entertain the commercial secretaries of Southern California when they meet in the Spanish village October 26.

SAVANNA P. T. A. NAMES COMMITTEES

Insurance Rate Survey Started

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 3.—With the basic insurance rate in the business district of the city already lowered as a result of previous investigations made by the Board of Fire Underwriters of the Pacific, a re-survey of the downtown district was started this week by L. W. Davis, working out of the Los Angeles office, to establish individual rates for properties in the business area.

Several months ago a petition was sent to the board asking that rates be lowered. In response, a representative told the chamber of commerce of the procedure. Later a survey of the water conditions and fire fighting equipment and conditions were made. These justified lowering the basic rate, according to Mr. Davis.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Babe Ruth, Babe Herman, Rogers Hornsby and Dazzy Vance are to sign new contracts this year. How would you like a 10 per cent drag on their pay checks? They say Babe isn't even going to ask for $100,000. He is satisfied with any modest figure between $95,000 and 100 grand. . . . Vance got $25,000 for pitching this year, and didn't pitch that much worth, say New York scribes. . . . Herman was hitting around .400 earlier in the season, but Lefty O'Doul's bat took an awful wallop at Herman's prospective pay envelope. . . . Edd Roush has been getting $21,000 a year under a three-year contract and this year that expires. . . . Watch him hold out! . . . The Cards have had a bad season and some of the boys on the St. Louis club are due for cuts.

ROCKNE-SCHOOLED TEAMS

Down at Notre Dame a powerful, driving team is being molded in the hands of Knute Rockne. But that isn't the only Rockne-schooled team to be seen this fall. There are Rockne teams in all sections of the country, coached by men the Sage of South Bend has educated.

In the east is Charlie Crowley at Columbia. Harry Stuhldreher, one of the Four Horsemen, turned out an unbeaten eleven at Villanova last season. Walter Halas, directing Drexel at Philadelphia, lost but one game last year. Harry Bauman is at Dayton. At the University of Detroit, Charlie Dorais established an undefeated eleven last season, and while Dorais is not one of Rockne's pupils, he is an old running mate of Knute and uses many of his plays.

SOUTH REPRESENTED

Down south is Charlie Bachman at the coaching helm of the University of Florida, one of the south's greatest teams this year. Tom King is at the University of Louisville, Ky.; Gene Oberst at Washington and Lee, and Harry Mehre at University of Georgia. Jack Meagher coaches the strong Rice Institute team at Houston, Tex., and F. W. Thomas is at the University of Chattanooga. Chuck Collins is at the University of North Carolina and Stan Coffall at Wake Forest, N. C.

At Purdue is Jim Phelan. St. Thomas, of St. Paul, Minn., has Joe Boland. At St. Xavier's, Cincinnati, is Joe Meyer. University of Buffalo has Jay Lee. George Philbrook has charge of the University of Nevada eleven, and at Mt. St. Charles, Helena, Mont., is Wilbur Eaton. At Gonzaga, Spokane, is M. J. Smith. Slip Madigan is molding Notre Dame teams at St. Mary's, Oakland, Calif. At South Dakota State is T. C. Kasper, Creighton, at Omaha, is coached by C. A. Wynne.

These men are carrying the football gospel of Rockne into every part of the country. You see Notre Dame football wherever you go.

HIS OWN TEAM

Notre Dame's strength this year is certain, though Rockne himself will admit only that prospects are "fair." There are three men for every position. In a practice game the other day, expert witnesses reported they never had seen blocking and tackling so uniformly good. Instead of the well-known Rockne aerial attack, the first team played a wide-open running game, varied with line drives.

There is power in the Notre Dame line, with Captain Lew at one guard and Cannon at the other. The tackles no doubt will be Twomey and Leahy, with Moynihan at pivot. At ends are Colrick and Vezile.

Jack Elder, sprinter, is one of the backs. Brill is on the other side, with hard-mitting Mullen in the middle. Carideo is at quarter. Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Southern California, Northwestern and Army, please note.

SAINTS MEET WHITTIER TOMORROW

Colfers Set For Country Club Invitational

80 TO TEE OFF FRIDAY IN QUEST OF MANY TROPHIES; 72 HOLES OF MEDAL PLAY

They will tee off tomorrow for the first 18 holes of the Santa Ana Country club's open invitational golf tournament.

Eighty of Southern California's leading amateurs are expected to participate in this 72-hole medal play classic, the annual blue ribbon event of local golf. The country club course, with eleven new greens only recently opened after a general revamping, is in the finest condition since it was opened several years ago, tournament officials declared.

DONS IN FINAL PREP FOR TILT WITH PHOENIX

BY "SKY" DUNLAP

With only two days remaining before Coach Bill Cook sends his Santa Ana junior college Dons against the Phoenix college Bruins in an intercollegiate football tilt here Saturday, grid activity in local jaycee ranks was increased to top speed today.

Nearly every man on the Don squad is in top shade to enter the fray. It is presumed that quite a few of the local players will see action against the heavy Bears. Pushing 200 pounds around the field is hard work. The only casualty is Leonard Nathand, quarter, who injured his ankle in practice yesterday. He will not be able to play.

Hal Dunham is giving Ed Adams a nice race for one end position. Wing duties are now to Hal but he is learning rapidly. George Warner has the other end position under his care and also calls signals for the team. At tackles, Captain Herold Hyton will play one side and probably Ernest Stump the other. However, Tim Wallace and Frank Miles are easily good enough to get the starting nod and all will play Saturday. Both weigh well over 170 pounds and compose the strongest part of Cook's machine.

Joe Warner and Bill Crawford seem destined to start at guard but will be pressed closely by Sam Griswold and Gene Olsen. Crawford is the star kicker of the outfit. Warner excels at pulling out of the line and running interference. Al Kluthe will start at center but may give way later to Griswold who is also a high class ball snapper.

The backfield is a more puzzling proposition and Cook is hardly sure of his starting "four horsemen." Lloyd Manderscheid will open festivities at fullback and Melvin Beatty will be at quarterback. Franklin Van Meter, Orville Schuchardt, John Dugdale, Baxter Geeting, Jack Dutton, Carl Beatolet, and Gene Olson will crowd in somewhere.

Schuchardt is the "zalloping ghost" of the team, in his first season of football proving a sensation at dodging and fleetness. He is also Cook's safety man and displays rare judgment in that role.

The curtain raiser scheduled between Julia C. Lathrop junior high school and Excelsior has been changed and the Santa Ana high school class "Bees" will sub for the Excelsior boys. Coach Clyde Patton has a good middleweight squad this year and the junior high school boys under Coach Ferris Scott, are also in good condition. The preliminary will begin at 12:30 p. m.

Coach Patton named several men for each position and the starting lineup will be as follows: Ends, Rogers, Higashi, Yamada or Illingsworth; tackles, Hall, Cole or Gramm; guards, Olson, Rucker, or Evans; center, Mellott or Elanor; quarter, Winslow or Dugger; halves, Bell, Chavez or Cormier and fullback, Hamilton or Manderscheid.

Oregon Squad Off For Card Campus

EUGENE, Ore., Oct. 3.—Eager to chalk up a victory over "Pop" Warner's Stanford eleven, 33 Oregon football players left today for Palo Alto to meet the Cardinals in the opening conference game Saturday. Dave Mason, captain, has improved to the extent that he will probably get in the game. He suffered a sprained ankle last week.

BARONS WIN TITLE

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 3.—The Birmingham Barons of the Southern association defeated the Dallas Steers, Texas league pennant winners here yesterday and captured the championship of the south. The Barons won four games to their opponents two, taking the last by the score of 7 to 5.

Sixty entries already have been received and filed and at least 20 more are expected by starting time.

Large delegations will invade the Newport boulevard layout from Potrero Country club, Long Beach Country club, Virginia Country club, Rio Hondo, Flintridge and San Gabriel. At least 30 Santa Anans will take part.

The tournament, a handicap affair, schedules 18 holes Friday, 18 holes Saturday and 36 holes Sunday.

Sixteen handsome trophies will go to winners. There will be prizes for first and second low gross and net for each day's play, as well as for first and second gross and net for the entire tournament.

Among the competitors will be the following Santa Anans: H. H. Williamson, Jesse Goodman, Rex Kennedy, C. V. Davis, W. D. Young, Frank Chapman, R. O. Winkler, Norman Hoyle, F. L. Purinton, L. W. Bemis, O. L. Bolton;

Jack Meiss, Van Pomeroy, Dr. G. C. Ross, J. L. Ainsworth, Mark B. Lacy, H. B. Van Dien, W. H. Spurgeon, A. B. Watson, R. G. Cartwright, C. P. Patton, Hugh Shields;

A. G. Flagg, Charles R. Furr, F. G. West, G. A. Oliver, H. S. Cvet, Paul Williams, J. K. McDonald, C. H. Way, M. B. Wellington, J. W. Huber, B. V. Curry and T. B. Talbert.

Skeet Club Meets At Cafe Tonight

Santa Ana Skeet club members will dine at the Santa Ana cafe tonight, beginning at 7 o'clock. Any sportsman interested in wing shooting is welcome to attend, according to Herb Carter, secretary. Plans for a mid-week shoot on the club's range will be discussed.

Jimmie Rivers Is Victor At Harbor

Jimmie Rivers, Fullerton Indian welterweight, outpointed Joe Rinehart in a slow, six-round semi-windup at Wilmington last night. Rivers won every round. Joe Bell was awarded a decision over Arizona Joe Rivers on a foul in the main event.

SETTLING THE POINT IN GOLF

The Athletics will win, according to Tyrus, because of one man, and, in order to baffle the constituency, I think I ought to mention the fact that the individual in question will not get a base hit, throw a ball, make a putout or receive credit for an assist.

RAKING ON THE GREEN

Raking things from the line of a putt with a putter or other club is a common violation of the rules. Loose impediments, such as twigs or matches, on the putting green must be removed by hand.

Tracing the line of a putt with a club thus is a forbidden practice. Rubbing the club along in the grass in the line of the putt is forbidden.

ORANGE LEAGUE TEAMS BEGIN GRIDIRON SCHEDULE TOMORROW; RACE WIDE OPEN

With only the familiar Big Red team of Fullerton lacking to make the annual picture complete, the Orange league tomorrow afternoon opens what is expected to prove the closest championship football race in its history. When Fullerton is in the circuit the outcome was always a foregone conclusion, but now that Tustin, Orange, Huntington Beach, Garden Grove, Anaheim, Excelsior and Brea-Olinda do not have the up-county to contend with, the struggle for the pennant promises to be close and lively. Every school is conceded a fighting chance.

TY COBB PICKS MACKS TO WIN WORLD SERIES

By DAVIS J. WALSH (I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—The Philadelphia Athletics will win the world series, said Ty Cobb today, who was quite as expected, and thereupon offered an explanation which was as unexpected as the bite of a vicious canary.

The Athletics will win, according to Tyrus, because of one man, and, in order to baffle the constituency, I think I ought to mention the fact that the individual in question will not get a base hit, throw a ball, make a putout or receive credit for an assist.

The man's name is Connie Mack. Gives Mack Credit

Connie, according to his late employer, will be one of the greatest single factors in the series with his judgment, generalship, split-second thinking and the inspiration he gives his men, and by way of emphasis and for good measure, Tyrus, who will "cover" the series for a syndicate, thinks Philadelphia has a few more aces buried in the deck, of which the following are a sample:

1. That Grove, far from being a chump against right hand hitting, has less trouble with the right handers than he does with left hand hitters.

2. That the club has too much polish, punch and confidence to be beaten, except by one of the great machines of the generation.

3. That apparently the Cubs are not one of the great machines of the generation.

MISS COLLETT TAKES LAST 5 HOLES TO WIN

OAKLAND HILLS COUNTRY CLUB, BIRMINGHAM, Mich., Oct. 3.—The fighting heart of a real champion today allowed Glenna Collett, present titleholder, to conquer in the running of the national women's golf tournament.

Four down, with four holes to go, Miss Collett won five straight holes with perfect golf to defeat Mrs. Harley Higbie, Detroit, in the quarter final round of the tournament, one up in 19 holes.

Miss Collett, showing the heart of a champion, fought as she never has had to fight and squared the match at the 18th hole. She won the 16th with a birdie four while Mrs. Higbie played a par five.

On the 18th Glenna's drive was back of a tree and she was forced to chip out, but she then approached near the green and her chip shot was within a foot of the pin. She sank the putt easily for a par.

Staters En Route To Trojan Tussle

CORVALLIS, Ore., Oct. 3.—Oregon State college's football warriors were enroute to Los Angeles today to invade the U. S. C. camp Saturday. A rousing sendoff was given the players here last night by students and townspeople.

ATHLETIC ODDS JUMP

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Betting odds on the world series have increased from 11 to 10 to 6 to 5, in favor of the Philadelphia Athletics, the brokerage firm of J. S. Fried and company, of Wall Street, announced today. Even money prevails on the first game.

POLY FIELD TILT WILL BE LAST HOME CONFLICT FOR LOCALS UNTIL OCTOBER 26

Santa Ana high school's football team tomorrow afternoon will play its last game on home soil until October 26. The Saints will meet the Whittier Poets, with the kickoff scheduled for 3:15, and they will not make another start on their own greensward until well along in the conference season when the Alhambra Moors come blustering into town in defense of their Southern California interscholastic title. Incidentally, the wrestle with the Poets will be Santa Ana's last "warm-up." The Coast Preparatory league will open its 1929 race the following week with the Saints playing a night game in the Pasadena Rose Bowl.

Coach "Tex" Oliver will send his strongest lineup against the aggregation from Ye Friendly Towne. He made that plain today. Whittier always has been a thorn in Santa Ana's side, having beaten the home guard, 20 to 0 in 1926, and 13 to 0 in 1927, the 1927 rout costing the Saints a league championship. Santa Ana slipped over a 13 to 7 victory last year but was forced to repulse a strong Poet attack on the goal line to escape defeat.

Two defeats and a call too close for comfort still rankle the Santa Ana mentor and he will make every effort to win the 1929 combat even if, unlike the contests of other years, it does not count in the conference standings. It will be remembered that Whittier is not in the Coast league this fall, having withdrawn along with South Pasadena to join the Foothill league.

Every Saint regular except Jack Fredericks, veteran fullback, will be mobilized for the contest. Fredericks, suffering from an abscess on his neck, will not be in suit but Don Crumley and Jimmie Hall, backfield men who have been on the hospital list for two weeks, are ready for service, as is every other member of the squad except, of course, Maxon Stull, the end, who suffered a broken leg in the Moravia Joust and is out of the game for the rest of the year.

Harold Pangle, the most improved man on the team, will play Fredericks' fullback position. He also will call the signals in the huddle. Al Rebohn, sensational little triple threat star, will play quarterback and safety. Norman Paul will be stationed at left half and Hall, probably will be at right half, which is largely an interference-running job.

Herren To Play End

Asa Herren, Oliver's "find," will start at left end. Alongside him will be "Bud" Hartman at left tackle and probably Marvin Johnston at left guard. Wayne Vance is expected to be at center. Captain Bruce Tarver will play running guard. He will be flanked at right tackle either by Harry Clayton or Bill Donahue, and at right end either by Lloyd Johnston or "Gib" Meisinger. "Toy" Blower has a slightly sprained hand and will not start.

Several changes in this tentative lineup are quite possible before game-time. Coach Oliver may decide to start Nuzum, who always has been a back anyway, in the backfield. Meisinger then would play right end.

Other changes are considered possible in the middle of the line where the race for positions is by no means settled. Captain Tarver, for instance, might start at center instead of Vance, whose passing has been erratic in practice this week, and any of six guards might get the call to Tarver's right and left. They are Johnston, Minor Whitford, John Jamison, Hard Runyan and Winfield Martin. The latter has the best possibilities of any Saint guard but has yet to prove he is entitled to a starting assignment.

TUESDAY NIGHT FIGHT NITE IN SANTA ANA

JACKIE FIELDS WINS; DEMPSEY PROMOTES BOUT

By FRANK GETTY
(United Press Sports Editor)

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—Something of the fighting spirit of the old Jack Dempsey, who battled to defeat here two years ago in his last appearance in the ring, and now has turned promoter, took hold of proceedings here last night.

The former champion was introducing his first boxing show to Chicago fans, and Jackie Fields, the welterweight champion, was handling Vince Dundee, a very thorough, if not workmanlike, pasting in the ten round feature bout.

Suddenly it seemed as though the same spirit of Dempsey, seated at the ringside, entered into the Baltimore Italian.

With a great rally which he carried on into the face of a two-fisted attack which had left him bruised and bleeding, Dundee swept into the champion and brought the crowd to its feet. It was a finish worthy of Dempsey himself, although the decision went to Fields at the end of 10 rounds.

Aside from this gallant rally on the part of Dundee, there was more excitement outside the ropes than inside at Jack's first show. The crowd of 8000 or so showed plainly that it had come to see the champion and his attractive wife, Estelle Taylor, who was a ringside spectator.

The receipts $31,574.25—were not up to Dempsey's expectations but represented a profit on his initial venture in fight promotion in the middle west.

slowly but surely up to the Whittier ruckus. They opened their season by beating Orange, 6 to 0. The Orangemen were much feared because of their greater training period but were really not so formidable as Monrovia, a foothill league team, which Santa Ana defeated 12 to 0 last week. Whittier is rated a notch above Monrovia and a notch below Pasadena. The Saint "warm-up" schedule was carefully arranged to give the team harder competition each week.

It is in the Whittier match that the Saints must begin to "click" if they expect to get anywhere with bigger and better eleven's just around the corner. Against Orange and Monrovia they fumbled frequently and missed many tackles but even so gave every evidence of latent power, offensively and defensively. After the Whittier game the "experts" will be able to tell whether they really are a good football team and qualified to oppose such schools as Pasadena, Long Beach, San Diego, Glendale and Alhambra.

Not much is known here about the prowess of the Whittier eleven which is coached by Don Douglas. The Poets boast five lettermen, Woods and Walker, halfbacks; Arambide, fullback, and Dahlitz and Robbins, guards. Dahlitz, who scales 180, is the heaviest member of the squad. Kampert, center, weighs approximately the same. Arambide is big enough to carry some authority, too. He missed up the veteran Saint line with his plunging last year, although Oliver's men were able to stop him on the goal-line, a forward pass resulting in the only Whittier touchdown.

Three Poet regulars are graduates from the Class B squad. They are Harris and Imboden, tackles, and Cline, quarterback.

Orange already has proved itself fit for Orange league company. Coach Stewart White's henchmen played Santa Ana a 6 to 0 count and defeated San Bernardino, 13 to 0, in its two practice games. Struck and Todd are two backs any high school coach would like to have around and there certainly is nothing wrong with the veteran Orange line.

Graduation hit Coach John Mitchell of Garden Grove where it hurt. The turnout at the Garden Grove institution is so small that Mitchell has to combine his Class A and B players for the varsity. Six lettermen, Hewitt, center; Mills and Dozier, guards; Hapes, tackle and Darch, end, have returned. Mitchell probably will use Hapes, a big fellow in his backfield. The Chilipeppers got one break, however, when they drew a bye this Friday.

Anahiem has a new coach, Ben Carpenter, and almost a new team as well. The Colonists have shown nothing so far, having dropped a 44 to 6 decision to Coronado last Saturday and are hardly expected to make a representative showing although Carpenter may bring his club along fast from this time on. Even so, the Colonists figure to open their season by beating Excelsior which is said to be weaker than usual.

The complete Orange league schedules, as recently revised, follows:

Oct. 4—Orange at Brea; Anaheim at Excelsior; Tustin at Huntington Beach; Garden Grove—bye.

Oct. 11—Huntington Beach at Orange; Brea at Garden Grove; Tustin at Excelsior; Anaheim—bye.

Oct. 18—Excelsior at Orange; Garden Grove at Anaheim; Huntington Beach at Brea; Tustin—bye.

Nov. 8—No games scheduled.

WILSON STATUE IN MODEL FORM

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 3.—(UP)—Gutzon Borglum, original sculptor of the Stone Mountain memorial, has practically completed in his studio here, the model for Poland's memorial to Woodrow Wilson.

"There can be no peace with victory" is the theme for the memorial suggested by that phrase from Wilson's second Lusitania note. The model depicts Wilson throwing aside the scholastic gown and entering world activities.

The memorial will have a 12-foot figure of President Wilson in bronze on a granite base. Back of the statue will be a pylon four and a half feet high and 12 feet wide. At the other end of the large granite base will be a map of the Polish republic.

The statue will be cast in New York after the model has been completed. Artist Borglum announces. It is to be erected on Plac Wolowski in Poznan (formerly Posn).

Intimate Sketches of World Series Stars

HAL CARLSON

Hal Carlson of the Chicago Cubs may prove to be the dark horse of the series from the pitching angle. . . . In figuring McCarthy's pitching selections in advance, Carlson isn't receiving much consideration. . . . Yet, he is the type of pitcher that bothers the Athletics. . . . It may be before the series is over that Carlson will be receiving serious thought. . . . Carlson is the veteran of the Chicago staff but still some shy of Jack Quinn's age. . . . Is close to the 36 mark and of course has passed the peak of his career. . . . Illness handicapped his work last season. . . . His record for the year shows three wins against two defeats. . . . Spent seven years with Pittsburgh. . . . Like several other Cub stars, Carlson can thank Barney Dreyfuss for him. . . . Waived out of both leagues in 1923 and sent to Wichita Falls. . . . Philadelphia Nationals drafted Carlson that fall for a mere $1000. . . . He won 20 games and lost 10 in the foot Texas league. . . . Proved a very valuable pitcher for the Phillies, at a cheap price. . . . Traded to Chicago in 1927 for players Kaufmann, Cooney and cash. . . . Won 16 games for the Cubs that season. . . . Banked on strongly for 1928, only to have illness kill all chances for a big year. . . . Has pitched well this year when given a chance and is certainly the dark horse possibility of the Cubs.

HOWARD EHMKE

Howard Ehmke of the Athletics occupies much the same position in the world series picture as does Hal Carlson of the Cubs. . . . Ehmke has been a distinct disappointment this year with the Athletics. . . . With a strong team back of him, he has done but little pitching. Due to a bad arm. . . . However, his record shows six victories in eight games. . . . During the middle of the season, Ehmke issued an ultimatum that he couldn't pitch without at least one week's rest. . . . That made him a rather costly asset. . . . Mack picked his spots and Ehmke did good work. . . . Asked to work with only a three days' rest, Ehmke kicked over the traces and it is said his suspension followed as a result. . . . Pitched several good games after his suspension was lifted. . . . One of the few pitchers in the majors who still uses the underhand delivery. . . . Should have been outstanding but, if you believe the players, lacked courage. . . . Peculiar style caused American league batters to dislike to hit against him. Club facing him for the first time seldom has much success with his stuff. . . . Mixes in a side arm ball with the subway style and also has a deceptive change of pace. . . . Says he may retire at the close of the present season. . . . If the Cubs take too many liberties with Mack's "Big Three," Walberg, Grove and Earnshaw, it is just possible Ehmke may be called upon to stop them.

the back steps if "Mr. Mack" as Tyus calls him, wasn't going to sit on the Philadelphia bench. He didn't actually say so but, in discussing "Mr. Mack" in considerable detail—and incidentally presenting an intimate lantern slide of the man's character—Tyus gave the impression that, if he didn't consider "Mr. Mack" the greatest manager in the game, he couldn't remember the name of a greater one.

"I mean no disrespect to Joe McCarthy when I point to Mr. Mack as an argument in favor of the Athletics," said Ty. "The fact of the matter is that, in my opinion, no man can away the result of a ball game from the bench as Connie Mack can. He is uncanny in his field direction; he moves his outfielders almost to the square inch for a hitter you would expect to hit in another direction entirely.

"You see, he figures his pitchers and what the count is on the batter and then he will tell you, within a few feet, where the ball will be hit. This often is dead against where the man usually hits but Mr. Mack is almost never wrong. He is almost occult about it. "I never saw a man who can get more out of his pitchers, jockey them to better effect or nurse them through the pinches with more success."

CENSORS WITHDRAW TWO PARIS DRAMAS

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(UP)—Two dramatic authors after working for months on a couple of plays of the savory order, as the French call them, have had the shock of their lives by finding that the city which is supposed to tolerate anything and everything in wickedness has banned their productions.

By order of the policeprefect neither production will be performed, since both go a bit too far in indecency, even for Paris.

These latest edicts are part of a campaign which is being waged against certain types of pornography—both plays allegedly deal with perversion—but this is the first occasion in decades, if not in living memory, that a production has been banished from the French boards on moral grounds, thus constituting a warning to dramatic authors who think they can bring any kind of material to the boards.

The Innocent Cheat

©1929 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

by Ruth Dewey Groves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
HELEN PAGE feels hopelessly in love with her guardian, LEONARD BRENT. A chance meeting with a dying beggar, CHARLES NELLIN, causes Brent to change his plans for Helen's future. Soon after he tells the girl that she is the only grandchild of a millionaire, CYRIL K. CUNNINGHAM.

Brent takes her to Cunningham and offers her a fortune. The lonely old man accepts. Hoping to make up for the injustice done her mother, Cunningham showers the girl with affection and gifts.

Among Helen's new friends are EVA ENNIS and her brother ROBERT, who falls in love with her. Brent finds another lock like the one he had taken from Nellin to establish Helen as the heiress. He also becomes jealous of Bob and plots to secure the girl for himself quickly.

Hearing the doctor say that a sudden shock would kill the old man, Brent gets the servants out of the way and rushes into the sick room shouting wildly that Helen has been killed. His plan works, and when the attendant returns, Cunningham is dead. Then Brent appears as friend and former guardian of Helen and takes charge of arrangements.

Brent had amused himself by making love to Eva and now he tries to break off the affair without making Helen suspicious. Meanwhile, Bob is too proud to speak his love until a chance meeting breaks his reserve and they both acknowledge their love. But Helen tells him it is hopeless, as she is promised to another.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVIII
"I can't break my engagement," Helen said stiffly. "I can only ask to be released."

Bob drew back from her, white to the lips. Her attitude was incomprehensible to him except from one angle—she did not truly love him. Argument, his naturally logical brain told him, would be useless. What could it mean to a girl who either was not very deeply in love or who was caught up in fallacies, to be told that only a fool would keep to a mere engagement when disaster threatened the outcome?

Bob wondered that Helen could think of it. Wondered that she could not see, as he did, that the course she was taking was sordid rather than idealistic.

A moment of anger flared up in his heart against her—the resentment of clean youth for evil compromise. It wiped from his mind the question he wanted to ask her. The name of the man she was going to marry.

".....going to marry," The words echoed in Bob's mind as a sentence to lifelong unhappiness. No man would let her go. Rot! A decent man...but not while he thought she might love him. Bob felt himself slipping into a maze of doubt and fear. But he could not argue, could not plead his own case further.

What appeared to be uncertainty on her part drove him to cruelty. He would not recognize quixotism as her prompter, he was too modern for that, and he knew nothing of her sense of obligation. To him she was unsure of her heart, and he had no tolerance for her.

"Then," he said quietly, coldly, "you're a bit of a rotter." All that he knew of neediness, even criminal, self-sacrifice; all that he knew of lives wasted for false precepts of honor; all that he realized of right and wrong was behind his words. What seemed her stupidity, that denied her brain, her apparent lack of courage to change her course when, to anyone but a fool, the danger signals all were set against it—these too had helped to call forth his scathing remark.

He had thought of her as brave and fearless—never a juggler with the tender passion. Love, he had believed, would come to her as true to him. How it could involve two men at the same time was an impenetrable mystery to him.

For Bob had never known puppy love. Helen's passing from love of love to love itself was beyond his understanding.

His youthful hardness, steeled by the thought that she would go through with a loveless match, was a phase of masculinity that Helen had never encountered before.

Brent had been cruel on occasion, true, but his was the suave cruelty of a hidden menace—the sheathed claw, that cut lightly on the surface but bit deep into the heart.

The frankness of Bob's generalization was unknown to her.

She did not flinch before the blow. Perhaps she was too shocked to show by so much as a flicker of her eyelids that it had struck her with terrific force.

Without another word Bob turned and strode out of the room. Mrs. Wethering, uneasily waiting in the library, saw him fling himself out of the house, leaving the front door open behind him, as though he were pursued by a demon.

She hurried to the kitchen but Helen had fled, up the rear stairs to her room.

Mrs. Wethering gathered up the things that were to have gone into the preparation of their midnight supper and put them away. Later she went to Helen's door and listened. She thought she detected the sound of muffled sobs but when she tried the door and found it locked she hesitated to demand admittance.

The sounds gradually grew fainter and finally the housekeeper decided that it would be better for Helen if she left her alone.

The next morning the girl was pale and worn, with shadowed eyes in which there was an unhealed wound.

Mrs. Wethering was very gentle and remained with Helen while she breakfasted, or rather while she went through the motions of partaking of her fruit and coffee. She hoped Helen would confide in her and went so far as to mention having witnessed Mr. Ennis' hasty departure the night before.

Still Helen said nothing, but there was on her face a set, cold expression that warned Mrs. Wethering that the incident, whatever it was, had a serious aspect.

Mrs. Wethering sighed over her inability to administer comfort and suggested that Helen ought to get out into the open. "You haven't driven your car very much lately," she said. "Why don't you let me fix you a picnic lunch and you can telephone for someone to go for a long drive with you? The weather is lovely."

"I'm going to New York," Helen answered quietly.

Mrs. Wethering was greatly disturbed but she did not dare offer any opposition. There was about Helen an air of determination that plainly indicated she was set upon a course from which she could not be swayed.

"Are you taking an early train?" Mrs. Wethering asked, hoping the girl did not intend to drive her car to the city. She was much relieved when Helen told her she was going on a morning train.

In Helen's mind, too, was fear of driving her car. She knew that she was likely to become forgetful of danger on the road and she did not want to risk injury to another person.

Mrs. Wethering found an excuse to go to her room with her when Helen went up to get her hat and wrap.

"There's just a little tang in the air; won't you wear a fur?" the housekeeper urged.

Helen accepted a silver fox and threw it carelessly about her shoulders. It made her costume perfect and Mrs. Wethering wondered if she had selected the black and white tweed ensemble, with its smart black and silk blouse, with any particular care.

"What could be the object of her visit to the city? It worried the older woman almost to the point of causing her to attempt to break down Helen's reserve.

But that reserve had acted as a shield upon many occasions and it remained effective now. Helen was permitted to leave without revealing her destination.

On the train she consulted a card to make certain that she had the correct address. Two or three times she said it over to memorize the street and number, then put it away. The name that was engraved upon it was a silent reproach.

How often had she fancied it as her own! Mrs. Leonard Brent. And now—now she dared not think beyond the hour that was to come when she would beg to be released from her mad promise. Surely, surely he would not hold her to it. But the voice of fear deep in her heart answered that he would. She realized that, aside from the keeping of his promise to her father, Leonard Brent had nothing outstandingly creditable to his account. On the contrary there were many things against him. His past; his deniable desire to shape a young life—her life—to please himself.

Helen could see now that her school friend, Shalimar, had been right in much she had said about Leonard.

"I should always have been myself," Helen mourned. "Then this could not have happened. Leno wouldn't have cared for me if I had been more independent."

She was wrong, of course, for youth will frequently have its hour of aberration in regard to love—when it turns to worship of an unnatural object.

But Helen felt that she was the only foolish girl in the world—the only one who had been fascinated by an older man, and she was drinking deep of regret.

The distance to New York from Yonkers seemed interminable—and yet she arrived there too soon, for the interview ahead of her promised to be extremely painful.

She had not telephoned to say that she was coming, feeling certain to find Brent in. The thought of talking to him by day had been impossible. She wanted to see him now, tell him, and have an end to her suspense.

At Brent's apartment house she gave her name at the desk and was told to come up. The girl who announced her turned a curious look upon her, but Helen missed it.

She stepped hurriedly into the elevator and gave her floor to the operator.

"Mr. Brent's apartment?" she inquired when he again opened the door for her. He too flashed her a queer glance when she named Brent. But his voice was correctly modulated when he gave the directions she asked for.

"To your right, Miss, the third door beyond the turn."

"Thank you," Helen replied and walked rapidly down the hall, quite unaware that her pale face and feverish eyes, her compressed lips and the hint of tragedy that hung about her was like a standard that she might have carried; and that the building attaches had read it to mean trouble. Particularly as they knew that a visitor had arrived ahead of her; a tall, slim, elegant visitor in fashionable attire and the unmistakable atmosphere of being at home in her surroundings.

Helen hurried on, expecting to find only Brent.

28 Girls And 20 Boys On High School Scholastic Roll

LEGIONNAIRES
OF BREAKFAST

With Charles Van Wyk heading a committee of Legionnaires responsible for the entertainment, ham 'n' egggers of the Santa Ana Breakfast club this morning were entertained with a program that will take second place to none offered in the past at a regular meeting of the "early birds."

Versatile, as well as clever, as a program director, Van Wyk threw a lot of spice into the morning entertainment. It was an American Legion meeting, so to speak, and a number of men prominent in the ranks of the Santa Ana post were present. Among them were Past Commander Franklin West and Commander Otto Jacobs, both of whom made brief remarks as to American Legion affairs. West was credited by Van Wyk with having done more for disabled veterans during his administration, last year, than had been done by the organization in the previous five years. Jacobs asserted that he would be satisfied if his administration during this year even approached that of the preceding commander.

In the special program of entertainment, the Dolly Fowler Yellow Jackets played a number of selections that delighted the members.

Miss Ora Walsh, who drove down from Los Angeles this morning to participate in the program, captured the hearts of breakfasters with a number of popular vocal solos, accompanying herself on the accordion. Miss Walsh recently returned from engagements in Australia.

George Stinson, ever popular "singing con," won further favor with the club members with two vocal numbers, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Frances Adams.

President Guy Gilbert announced that it was possible that the American Legion members identified with the club would be asked to give another program on or about November 11.

Hunter Leach and Bob Walker were other members of the entertainment committee officiating with Van Wyk.

Grant Holderman, of Tustin, sounded the bugle call to breakfast.

INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP IS
ADDRESS TOPIC

Kiwanians present at the meeting, yesterday, of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club were treated to an address that was chockful of witicism and at the same time pointed out the growing tendency of nations toward co-operation in the elimination of war and the development of a more friendly feeling between the natives of all nations.

A. W. Evans, resident of San Clemente, was the speaker. He was born in Wales and came to the United States about 15 years ago and his discourse was on the subject, "What America Means to Me."

"Large heartedness and open mindedness" is what this country means to him, he said, this attitude coming after he had pointed out many conditions that existed in his native country and in other European nations.

"History is written for home consumption and I know of no better historian than a secretary of a chamber of commerce," said Evans, as he recounted that in his school days histories were adapted to the individual nation and did not contain information about other nations that should be known to every student.

"I never heard a thing about Germany when I was in school studying history, although that nation was but a few miles from my native heath," said the speaker, "and the impressions I had of that country came to me through caricatures printed in magazines."

He asserted that in his youthful days European nations devoted their educational facilities largely to inculcating in the minds of the young the idea that the home nation was supreme in everything.

"We were not taught the possibility and the value of co-operating with other nations in extension of friendly relations," Evans asserted.

Evans commented on the coming visit of Premier Ramsay MacDonald from London and predicted possible splendid results in promotion of better international relations.

"America means brotherhood to me, rather than liberty," he said, in declaring that there is too much liberty in some nations.

DR. ECKENER

By Hugh Allen Copyright, 1929, NEA Service, Inc.
THE FIRST AUTHORIZED STORY OF THE LIFE OF THE COMMANDER OF THE ZEPPELINS

Clinging precariously to metal braces and bits of wire over the ocean, bracing himself with sturdy shoulders and knees as he leaned far out to catch fluttering bits of canvas and tie them in was Knut Eckener, the pride of his inner soul, Knut, his boy.

The commander had tried to steel his mind to the fact that his ship, the Graf Zeppelin, was in the storm, with the ship swinging like a free balloon, was no risk that any father would willingly see his boy take. If that steel grip ever slipped from the he clung as he worked, no power on earth could save him.

Would Increase Danger

To start up the motors was to increase the danger many fold. The likelihood was that he and the others would be brushed off like flies. A rescue after that fall into the ocean would be a miracle. For the first time in the 60 vigorous years of his life, Hugo Eckener looked old.

It seemed like hours as he debated, visualized. As a matter of fact the delay was like that between the two ticks of a watch. Here was Fleming again.

"I must have two motors, sir, at once," he repeated.

The creation of a lifetime crashing about his ears. Count Zeppelin's long dream, threatened at the moment of success. Duty comes first. He braced his shoulders, straightened up, looked Fleming squarely in the eye.

"Very well," he said quietly, "start your motor."

Idling propellers quickened into action. Two motors roared back the defiance to the storm. The ship began to move forward, began slowly to mount to safer altitudes. Dr. Eckener climbed silently into the body of the ship, walked slowly aft. The boy, guessing what had happened as the motor started, gripped his teeth, took a fresh grip of a slippery duralumin girder, worked desperately on.

Knut Eckener was winning his spurs that day.

Half an hour later Hugo Eckener returned to the control car, spoke briefly to Commander Rosendahl of the American navy. "Release your ships from standing by," he said quietly. "We'll not need them. The work is in hand."

The tension that hung over Lakehurst station relaxed. Men hurried out to send off wireless messages of good cheer, congratulation, encouragement. The fight in the storm had caught at the heartstrings of the nation. It was reflected in other nations across the seas, in Germany, in France, in England, in Italy, wherever men live who honor courage and resourcefulness.

Readjust Motors

Early in May, 1929, Dr. Eckener set out for his second trip to America in the Graf Zeppelin. But prior to the start there had been some readjustment of the motors.

"Taking up these strings just a millimeter will do the trick," said the machinists.

Every American who drives an automobile knows what the crankshaft is. Between the crankshaft of the motor and the propeller shaft is a coupling designed to take up the vibration caused by the whirling of the great blades. The vibration is so slight that it can hardly be seen with the naked eye. It must be measured with precision instruments. But even that vibration, small as it is, must be headed off before it reaches back into the motors themselves. Hence these flexible couplings.

The adjustments made, the Graf again was in the air en route to America.

Then a flash came over the cables: "The Graf has turned back."

Confirmation came shortly afterward. The Graf was having engine trouble. The news grew more disquieting as the hours passed. One report said that two motors had failed. Another report had it four. The worst reports were true. The Graf was fighting its way back across southern France with but one motor running. A vicious mistral wind was setting up over Marseilles.

The news was incredible. One motor might fail on any piece of machinery. But for four out of five of them to go wrong was unbelievable. In each case the answer was the same, that the crankshafts had broken. When an airplane motor fails, the plane must land immediately and hope that there is level ground within landing distance. But the airship is held aloft by the lifting gas, the motors merely driving it forward.

With the wind in his favor, Eckener might have free ballooned his airship back to Friedrichshafen, but the Zeppelin was being lashed by a gale and he saw that this was impossible. He must save his remaining motor as much as he could for the supreme need if one should arise. Mountains were ahead, the twisting valley of the Rhone. South of him from the Mediterranean near Toulon was the harbor Cuers, built as it happened to house his own ship, the L-72, renamed the Dixmude. He wirelessed for permission to land there, asked for a landing crew.

France Responds

France responded to the flag of distress. Paris ordered the garrison at Cuers to stand by to render every possible assistance. Broadcast word to all villages to

Sisters Entertain at Country Club for August Bride

No social event of the autumn season has attracted a warmer interest than the tea given yesterday afternoon at Santa Ana Country club, by Mrs. Roy H. Hall and Mrs. Irwin F. Landis as a compliment to the third of this trio of charming sisters, Mrs. Charles Richard Couden who, prior to her late August wedding, was Miss Marjorie Dana Ellis.

Social affairs at which the sisters preside always seem to be marked by a special little charm all their own, while the popularity of Mrs. Couden and her romantic wedding to Mr. Couden followed by a honeymoon at the Grand Canyon, increased the interest shown in this first formal function honoring her as a bride.

An autumnal wealth of dahlias and chrysanthemums, dictated the choice of gold and blue as the color motif of the clubhouse decorations, and the handsome furnishings were so arranged as to give an air of intimacy not often found in such a spacious place as the big assembly room of the clubhouse. Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Landis, heading the receiving line, wore graceful afternoon gowns, while their mother, Mrs. Charles Willis Ellis, chose soft black velvet with touches of creamy lace.

Mrs. Couden has never looked lovelier than in her costume of broadened georgette in soft blue with Spanish gold stripes, which emphasized the magnolia petal quality of her skin and the bronze of her hair.

Guests had been asked for different hours, and a bevy of young matrons aided in directing them to the tea table, and other hostess responsibilities. This group included Mrs. Glenn E. Lindley, Mrs. Don Andrews, Mrs. Elsie Spruance, Mrs. Warren Fletcher. Four friends of long standing had been asked to preside at the beautifully appointed tea table, Mrs. William E. Otis and Mrs. Leonard Colvin officiating in the earlier afternoon, resigning their places later to Mrs. James E. Liebig and Mrs. Edward M. Nealey. Mrs. Otis wore lace and Canton crepe in soft rose tones. Mrs. Colvin chose orchid lace. Mrs. Nealey was in deep blue velvet with lace, and Mrs. Liebig selected Canton crepe in dahlia shades with touches of black and gold.

The table from which the two-course tea menu was served, was strikingly lovely with an Italian lace banquet cloth over blue, and was lighted by candleabra fitted with blue candles, whose flames flickered over the gold and blue flowers in a long central basket. These harmonized with the huge golden chrysanthemums and dahlias arranged artistically throughout the room.

One of the pleasantest features of the afternoon was the informal musical program by three of the guests who are among the city's favorite artists, Mrs. P. W. Slabaugh, Miss Louise Montgomery and Mrs. Arnold Peek (Ione Tunison Peek). Mrs. Slabaugh sang two Cadman numbers, the "Song of the Robin Woman" from "Shanewis," and "Her Shadow," with Mrs. Peek as accompanist, later in the afternoon granting Mrs. Couden's request for that lovely old English ballad, "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes." Miss Montgomery chose "All For You," the "Bayou Song" of Lily Strickland, and "My Lover He Comes on a Ski" by Clough-Letter.

Among the guests bidden to greet the bride, and enjoy the varied features of the afternoon, were Mesdames George Paul Jr., Guy Ford, Warren Fletcher, Norman Gilbert, D. K. Hammond, Arnold Lund, James Liebig, Robert Northcross, Arnold Peck, E. M. Nealey, Elmer Schaniel, Frances Scott, John Jacobs Jr., Howard Timmons, John Tessenman, M. B. Wellington, Henry Williams, E. At the conclusion of the evening's bridge games it was found that Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson were high, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Walker, second and Mr. and Mrs. Elton Roehm, third, and they were rewarded with handsome prizes while an equally attractive guest prize went to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell.

Assisting Mrs. and Mrs. Nowotney during the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Zerman.

Interesting Affair
The Woman's society of the First Baptist church was called into business session at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. W. A. Atkinson led a helpful devotional service with the topic "Let No Man Despair Thy Youth."

Mrs. E. A. Bell presided while splendid reports were given of work done by the many departments of the organization.

The Welcome Home supper was served in the social rooms of the church. The tables were attractively decorated with pepper sprays and candles. The World Wide Guild Girls and members of the Fabolo club added to the charm of the supper hour as they waited on the tables.

The program of the evening was presented in the church auditorium. Mrs. Stella Jane Brubaker, as counselor for the W. W. G. groups, directed.

"A Clinic of a Missionary Specialist" was presented by the vice counselors of the Guild. The missionary doctor prescribed worth while interests to cure the ills of trivialities that affected Mrs. Backnumber, Mrs. Butterfly, Mrs. Doltie, Mrs. Narrowmind and several other sufferers.

The girls of the Guild then gave the play, "The Glorious Light." "Opportunity" led them into places of usefulness through W. W. G. channels of service and the closing scene, a Red Cross girl and a White Cross girl, each holding a flag bearing her emblem and surrounded by the characters of the play, all pledged helpers of the soldiers of the cross on mission fields. This was the climax of the theme of the evening, "Youth's Vision."

The WOMAN'S DAY

Recently a woman wrote a lurid book disclosing the shortcomings and infidelities of her divorced husband. The book has become a best seller, has brought in $20,000 for movie rights and has secured the writer a position on a New York newspaper.

All of which shows the high price first-person gossip pays today!

In Grandmother's day no breath of scandal about a family was allowed to leak out, if tight locks on family skeletons and integrity on the part of family friends could prevent it.

The old art of blackmail paid well. But the blackmailers of today are not at all discreet. For society held some things sacred in those days. Marriage was one of them. Husbands and wives might not have told each other everything, but they certainly told the world nothing.

REVELATIONS PAY

Today there are no reticences whatever. Grandmother's granddaughter not only beats gossip to it but outdoes it at its own dirty game. Men and women have discovered that intimate revelations, told in heart-breaking first person, pay prices that would have made even the most boastful blackmailers of yesterday look like a piker.

Perhaps it might not seem so unethical if these confession writers confined their stories to their own heart throbs. They invariably bring in others, sometimes a whole string of other men and women. There seems to be no feeling on the part of writers of the pain such sensational revelations might bring these others.

DECADENT DAYS?

Frankness, it seems to me, has become confused with license in this matter. That a man or woman could write this type of book and keep his self-respect is incredible. But even more incredible does the great national thirst for such lurid tales seem to me. I feel that this is one of the greatest signs of decadence in the nation. It throws every one of good taste towards greater reticence in the future.

Are Mother-In-Laws Terrible?

Sometimes I Think "Yes"—BUT—Sometimes I Think "No"

By Velva G. Darling

NO girl can possibly be good enough for HER son! Of course she never SAYS as much, this mother of a young fellow. But even if he brought home a girl who was the combination of Mary Pickford, the Queen of Rumania, Ann Morrow Lindbergh, and the sweet girl next door—his mother would have plenty of reasons left to convince herself that she wasn't good enough for him. There is something frightening to the average boy's mother about the idea of having her pride and joy, the brightest jewel in her crown, and the light of her life—her SON—whom she has spent the best years of her life for, being some OTHER woman's possession! His mother raised him from a tiny baby, taught him the first words he ever spoke, rocked him to sleep, took him to school, made all his birthday cakes for him, loved him, lived for him, adored him. And now he wants to spend the rest of his life—NOT with HER—but working for ANOTHER woman, giving HER his hard earned money, supporting her, and worst of all, being HER constant companion, not his mother's. This is the psychology which makes mothers-in-law the most dreaded and awe-inspiring species of the human family. The continued presence of mother-in-law jokes in our humorous publications isn't due merely to a queer quirk in the minds of the public. It is based on a very real and very lamentable emotional reaction which most mothers never overcome as soon as their son has "taken it into his head to marry some girl!"

But on the OTHER hand, many a young wife would spend days of tortured grief over the strange behavior of a precocious young husband if it weren't for her mother-in-law. Having lived all his life with her son, the boy's MOTHER knows ALL about his tantrums, his selfishness, and his laziness. She knows just exactly what those periods of depression and moodiness mean—she simply needs a good dose of salts before breakfast! In the paper this morning is an account of a mother-in-law who actually helped her son's wife get a nice fat alimony by testifying during the divorce proceedings that the girl had been a PERFECT WIFE, and that her son was a temperamental, selfish, young rascal who—because he made a fine success as a lawyer—thought he could talk to his wife as he did when he was trying to intimidate a witness.

Sometimes I think mothers-in-law are angels from heaven. They can be—and are—of inestimable value to the young wife in understanding the strange creature she married. On the other side of the argument, though, many a young wife shudders and weeps and makes violent appeals to her husband about her "OWN rights" when his mother mentions coming for a visit. Certain mothers-in-law leave nothing but DISCORD and TRAGEDY in their wake. Nothing that their son's wife does is right—she doesn't know how to keep house, she is extravagant, careless, and she doesn't APPRECIATE her HUSBAND! She is, in other words the one fly in a mother's ointment of perfect happiness.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Stick to One Scale When Weighing Yourself

The person who must watch weight should select some one scale and weigh every week.

For his own peace of mind he should weigh BEFORE eating, otherwise the weight will vary from one to two pounds on the up side, and that is a real tragedy to one who has undergone the rigors of a reducing diet! Clothing must be approximately the same weight also.

If diet rules have been carefully followed and weight is again shooting up, go onto a liquid diet for one day, two, if able. This liquid diet may be swim milk and orange juice, or strained all-vegetable broth alternated with orange juice. At night a very hot bath should be taken, long enough to induce profuse perspiration, provided such a hot bath does not demoralize one. Three pounds can be lost under this scheme, but it goes right back again unless diet rules are strictly observed.

ANN MEREDITH.

WINTERSBURG, Oct. 3.—Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Porter had as Sunday guests, Mrs. Porter's relatives, Mrs. Eliza Quail and daughter, Thora, and the Rev. George Hardwick, of Wilcox, Ariz. Mr. Hardwick, who is a brother of Mrs. Porter, is pastor of the Methodist church of Wilcox, and the three were attending annual conference of the district at Long Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hall and children, Virginia and Vernon Hall, of Los Angeles, visited Sunday in the home of Mrs. Hall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bradbury.

Mrs. George Murdock, Ralph Murdock and Ralph Murdock Jr. were visitors in Wintersburg Sunday in the W. F. Slater home. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Lansing, of Riverside, sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. W. F. Slater, motored to Santa Ana Sunday to visit Mr. Jordan, father of Mrs. Lansing and Mrs. Slater, and came as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Slater.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Spiced Salmon

4-pound piece of salmon

2 cups vinegar

1 dozen whole cloves

1 scant teaspoon nutmeg

1 teaspoon whole peppercorns

1½ tablespoons butter

1½ teaspoons salt

Select a large salmon and have a piece cut from the thick part of the fish or use whole fresh cod or a striped sea bass. They are delicious when so prepared, and keep indefinitely, closely covered in a cool place. A small earthen jar provides the ideal receptacle for spiced fish. Get one of the shallow flat kind large enough to hold the fish without crowding, cover with a plate and weight it so that the pickle completely covers the fish.

Wash the fish, remove all debris, tie loosely in a towel, drop into boiling salted water and cook tender. Lift carefully from the kettle, untie the cloth and let the fish cool before removing the skin. There should be about two cups of liquid left from cooking the fish, to this add an equal amount of vinegar and the spices mentioned.

Let it boil long enough to have the spices season it nicely, then strain through a cloth, add the butter and pour it over the fish, which has first been placed in its jar. When cool, place a plate and weight over the fish, cover securely and keep in a cool place.

Fish, spiced in this fashion, will keep indefinitely. It is delicious sliced and served cold for supper accompanied by a nice salad. It may also be re-heated by steaming.

DOUBLE BILL SHOWS IN FOX-WEST COAST

Another of the well liked double feature programs which have been shown in the Fox-West Coast theater for the last several weeks starts there today, with "The Exalted Flapper," starring Sue Carol, and "Mother's Boy," featuring the well known tenor, Morton Downey.

The films will be shown here only today and tomorrow.

Morton Downey sings several of the best known songs in the show, including the theme song, "I'll Always Be a Mother's Boy," and "The World Is Yours and Mine." Other airs heard in the play are "I'm Funny That Way" and "Good Little Bad Little You."

Helen Chandler has the leading feminine role and in one love scene with her Downey sings "There'll Always Be You and I." Others in the cast are Beryl Mercer, John T. Doyle, Barbara Bennett and Oswald Perkins.

"The Exalted Flapper," a silent film, is the story of a princess who comes to New York with her mother and learns the ways of the American flapper, to take them back to her kingdom in Europe. She falls in love with a man she believes to be an Englishman and he falls in love with her when he thinks she is an American.

A Fox movie newsreel completes the bill.

Plenty Thrills In West End Picture

Using a moving train, a college campus, and a fight stadium crowded with a thousand fight fans for settings, James Cruze, director, filmed one of the most strenuous pictures of his career in "The Duke Steps Out," William Haines' new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer vehicle now playing in the West End theater.

William Haines, in his newest picture, "Speedway," comes to the Fox-Broadway theater tomorrow for three days, following "Smiling Irish Eyes," with Colleen Moore, which started last Monday and comes to a close tonight.

"Speedway" is a sound picture, produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which was made at the Indianapolis auto races this year. Haines, as Bill Whipple, mechanic, is forced into the race at the last minute and is a sure winner when he surrenders the wheel to his friend to allow him to fulfill a lifelong ambition.

Anita Page has the feminine lead and others in the cast include Ernest Torrence, Karl Dane and Polly Moran.

Airplanes and automobiles furnish plenty of thrills, one of which is a parachute jump made by Haines and Miss Page when their plane goes wrong while they are rushing for a new automobile part just before the race.

An "Our Gang" comedy, "Boxing Gloves," a Pathe audio review, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer skit and a Fox movie newsreel complete the program.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The difficulty of hearing services in the nave of Winchester cathedral, the longest cathedral in England, has at last been remedied. Tests have shown that the public address system will do the trick. So speakers and microphones costing more than $1,500 will be installed. Ten speakers will be placed on each side of the nave, while others will be placed in places where there are dead spots. The speakers will all be connected with the pulpit microphone.

LAW REQUIRES REVISION, SAYS EXPERT GROUP

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—In a report recently filed by the standing committee on radio law of the American Bar association, of which Louis G. Caldwell, the former general counsel of the Federal Radio commission, is chairman, repeal of the monopoly provisions of the radio act of 1927 as well as many other revisions is advocated.

"Because of section 13," the report says, "there is a constant threat to the foreign communication system of the United States. This section makes it possible for a larger proportion of the very valuable short waves which the United States has assigned for use by American stations to be thrown back into the international grab-bag, open to registration by other nations."

Another grave error in the act is section 17, according to the report, "as this section rests upon a misconception as to the nature of radio and its relation to wire communication." These two means of communication, the report contends, should be permitted to combine under proper conditions. This would benefit the public greatly.

The report also states that the existing uncertainty and separation of authority in radio administration should be eliminated by putting radio registration definitely in the hands of either the Federal Radio commission or the department of commerce.

The report advises that the Davis amendment of March 28, 1928, which required the commission to allocate all broadcasting facilities equally as between the zones and in proportion to population as between the states in each zone, be repealed. It also advocates the repeal of the provision dividing the country into zones and the repeal of the section which states that construction permits are needed before a station can be constructed.

KFI'S PROGRAM OF FARM TALKS TOLD
Beginning each day at 12 noon and continuing 10 minutes, talks of interest to farmers, growers and producers will be given during the week beginning October 7, under the auspices of the agricultural extension service, co-operating with radio station KFI. The schedule of daily talks is announced here by the farm advisor:

October 7—"Rabbit Diseases," Dr. L. E. Pike, veterinarian, Los Angeles county livestock inspector's office.

October 8—"Mother and Baby Clubs," Miss Mary M. Richardson, home demonstration agent, San Bernardino county.

October 9—"Proper Attitude of County Officials Toward the General Public," R. R. McLean, agricultural commissioner, San Diego county.

October 10—"Why I am a Conservationist," Judge Harold I. Cruzan, vice president, Los Angeles Conservation association.

October 11—"Walnut Question Box," M. H. Kimball, assistant farm advisor, Los Angeles county.

October 12—"Selecting Citrus Seedlings," J. B. Culbertson, citrus grower, of Ventura county.

BEFORE THE MIKE

Fans who prefer their football straight, unadorned by descriptions of surrounding scenery, sunsets and crowds, can thank Freeman Talbot of KOA, Denver, for that station's announced football program this year. What listeners want to know, according to Talbot, is the location of the ball, the number of downs, the score and the names of the players.

For the past five years Clarence C. Moore has been a part-time entertainer at KOA, Denver. But he has finally succumbed to radio's lure and is now devoting his entire time to singing, acting, announcing and building programs there. His bass voice is as well known to radio fans as his hardware and iron company is known in the business world. He is a graduate of the University of Denver, Culver Military academy and the Case School of Applied Science.

Show us that cat with nine lives and we'll exhibit Harry Swan, radio actor and manager of radio effects for the Columbia system. Harry "died" 11 times in one week in plays he was featured in.

WNYC requests full time on the air.

RADIO SETS IN USE AT TOTAL OF 21,629,107

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—Lawrence D. Batson, of the electrical equipment division of the department of commerce, said that the tendency in Europe is for complete government control of broadcasting.

With one or two exceptions, he continued, one large central station is operated as the center of the broadcasting system, with numerous smaller systems connected with it to form a chain.

Recent indications are that Italy is expanding its broadcasting system more rapidly than other European countries, he said. In January and February, Italy imported more receiving sets than in any previous year. All broadcasting is controlled by the government.

Germany Owns Stations
In Germany all the stations are owned by the government through possession of controlling shares of the stock. Mr. Batson stated. There are 10 central stations, each surrounded by small stations in that particular section. There was a hook-up of this entire system for the reception of the airship "Graf Zeppelin" in Los Angeles.

A tax of 10 shillings ($2.42) per cent on all owners of receiving sets is the method used in the United Kingdom to maintain the government controlled and operated broadcasting stations. It was explained.

Distribution of Sets
According to the electrical equipment division of the department of commerce, the estimated value of receiving set installations for the world is $1,543,750,000 and the value of broadcasting installations is estimated at $22,682,222.

There are 21,629,107 receiving sets in use in the world, of which the estimation shows the United States has 10,250,000 and Europe, aside from Russia and Turkey, has 9,139,824, says "The United States Daily." On the basis of the above compilations there is one receiving set for approximately every 85 people in the world, one set for every 53 people in Europe, and one set for every 12 1-2 people in the United States.

NEW SALES HEAD

Alfred Rush, well known Santa Ana radio technician and salesman, who has assumed his new duties as sales manager in the radio department of the B. J. Chandler Music house, on West Fourth street.

RUSH IS NAMED SALES HEAD OF B. J. CHANDLER

Alfred Rush, well known in Santa Ana and Orange county as a radio technician and salesman, this week assumed his duties as sales manager for the B. J. Chandler Music house, one of Santa Ana's Majestic dealers.

Rush has had many years' experience in the radio field, both here and in the east, and is well fitted for his new post in the Chandler store.

The new sales manager has a host of friends in the city, made during contacts with the public during his days as a technician. He has worked in several radio stores here and every change he has made has been for the purpose of advancement in his chosen field.

Although Rush's new position finds him in the sales department, he will, he says, oversee, to a certain extent, repair work brought to the Chandler store.

100 STATIONS TO CARRY NBC, CBS PROGRAMS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—More baseball fans are expected to attend the world series between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics this year than have ever attended such games before.

Their presence, however, will be by radio, when millions of radio listeners will sit before their radio sets on the days when these two American and National league champions play and hear two of the best sports announcers in the country tell them what is happening. More than 100 stations ranging from coast to coast will be the means of broadcasting.

Arrangements for installing the proper radio equipment at Wrigley field in Chicago and Shibe park in Philadelphia have been made, and engineers of both the National Broadcasting company and the Columbia Broadcasting system are putting the finishing touches to the work.

Behind the screen back of home plate at each of these ball parks, microphones are being set up in the press stand for the use of the two premier sports announcers of these networks. At one microphone will be Graham McNamee, whose voice has been heard at the leading sports events of the country ever since the broadcasting of big games came into vogue.

At the other mike will be Ted Hustin, leading sports announcer for the Columbia Broadcasting system, who also has made his name known in this particular field.

Will Get Expert Help
The radio fans listening in on either the NBC or Columbia network will get an accurate description of the game being played is certain, for each of these announcers are profound baseball fans and know the game and the players well. Yet, so that no bright or significant feature of the game is missed, each of these men will have at his side one or two additional baseball experts who will prompt them when necessary and help them see the game with greater detail and accuracy.

As a result, radio fans will have a more expert idea of the games being played than most of them would if they were present in person.

Special lines from the microphones at the press stand, through the control panels underneath the stands, will carry the voices of the Columbia and NBC announcers.

One radio will sound very well in one store and still another seems to sound the same in some other store. But which of the two or three or four sounds best? There is only one sure way to tell.

That is by hearing them all at the same time under the same playing conditions.

The O. S. Peterson Co. offers you this chance for comparison, and I am sure you will agree with us, for many thousands of people are purchasing every day each of the different radios we carry. To some ears the Atwater Kent is the most delightful radio in existence. Its screen-grid feature makes it one of the outstanding sets of the year. To others,

Certainly the resources and experience back of R. C. A. could be expected to produce the finest. The Majestic radio, which has almost set the radio world on fire with its many features, and the fact that they are selling carload after carload in Southern California. The Philco offers a variety of cabinets, both screen-grid and neutrodyne circuits, a set which many prefer. The Earl radio, which many people consider the best possible value that can be bought to suit the purchaser who does not wish to pay a big price.

INVENTOR SEES RADIO AS GREAT AID TO FARMER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 3.—If the prediction of Dr. Lee De Forest, pioneer radio tube inventor, comes true, it won't be long before a farmer will go to work in the morning at banker's hours, walk into a nice clean office, push a few buttons and start his farm machinery in operation by means of ultra short-wave radio.

He could then sit down, read the morning paper, call up his neighbor, talk to him over the telephone and watch him through his television. He could take the afternoon off with the assurance that when he comes home his work will have been executed just as smoothly as if he had been there to superintend it.

Sees Tasks Performed
"I can visualize many tasks performed by aid of radio control in the future," says Dr. DeForest. "In fact, out in the middle west where I was born I can picture the farmer seated in an observation tower, controlling one or more tractors by ultra short-wave radio. The country is so flat that at a few feet elevation a man can see for miles. A transmitter on the tractor itself can flash back a signal to the farmer, indicating the exact state of affairs and how orders are being carried out.

"Of course there's the question of providing the necessary wave-lengths. Today, with an overcrowded ether, there appears little chance to squeeze out additional channels, particularly for many individual uses.

Has Great Hopes
"I have great hope for ultra short-wave radio combined with directional or beam effects as a means of securing all the necessary channels for localized application.

"I am sure history will repeat itself, for just as the earlier radio applications had to do with actuating a bell or tape recorder and performing other mechanical work, so the future of radio art will have to do with controlling machinery."

WEAF Silenced By Bat In Condenser

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 3.—A bat's decision to rest among the condenser plates of the power house of station WEAF, in Belmont, N. Y., silenced the station for eight hours recently. The bat was shocked to death.

His body fell across the plates, shortening the condenser. Six hours elapsed before the bat was found and two hours were spent rebuilding the condenser.

Press Wireless In Request For Wave Monopoly

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The federal radio commission recently has received applications from Press Wireless, Inc., a public utility corporation, asking to take the frequencies assigned to the press of the country and to build 26 radio stations each of 10,000 watts power in various parts of the United States.

Two stations each would be built in Little Neck, N. Y., New Orleans, Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Washington, D. C., and Newton Upper Falls, Mass., and one station each at Cleveland, Detroit, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Dallas, Miami, Memphis, Kansas City, Mo., Minneapolis, Denver, Seattle and Salt Lake city.

CARRIER PIGEONS ARE LOSING JOBS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—The carrier pigeon has at last become the victim of the progress of radio. All naval shore stations, with the exception of the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., and the naval base in Guam, after October 1, will abandon the use of the carrier pigeon, according to an order issued by Secretary of the Navy Adams.

It has been found that the powerful naval radio stations have afforded more dependable service.

QUESTION MAN

ALEXANDER McQUEEN

QUESTIONS ARE ANSWERED ON NOVELTY HOUR

CINCINNATI, Oct. 3.—Few educational features, according to numerous radio surveys, rank in favor ahead of music, acts and other entertaining programs. But there's one educational skit, "Scrap Book Time," conducted by Alexander McQueen at WFBE here, that has run daily on its popularity for the past three years.

"The Scrap Book Man," as McQueen is known, started his feature three years ago at WSAI, another station here. He had translated a Latin passage that was of value to the station and they pressed him into service to supervise languages used in announcements.

After several weeks at the station, McQueen filled in a ten-minute period with his "Scrap Book Time" material. For the first few days McQueen made up his own questions and answered them. But after a week or so he was getting questions at the rate of more than 35 a day.

Ordinary dry bits of information must be humanized in order to make them entertaining, according to McQueen. An in order to keep a listener from tuning him out in a musical program, McQueen ushers in his feature with a piano selection and introduces such funny novelties as the sounds a man makes while shaving.

Women, according to McQueen, make up the majority of his querulous audience. Seventy-five percent of all the questions sent him are from women, he says.

And some of the questions he is called on to answer are funny. Three that he cites as examples of the limitless variety thrown at him are: What is the weight of the Statue of Liberty? What is the exact meaning of the German word, "Gemuetlichkeit"? Why does a girl close her eyes while being kissed?

Before he became engaged in radio work, McQueen spent his

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 3.—The antenna poles of KDKA on the hill above East Pittsburgh have taken on a candy-stick appearance as the result of ever-increasing air traffic.

To make them easily visible to passing planes they have been painted black and chrome yellow in stripes. This is the standard color and design recommended by the department of commerce. All Westinghouse radio antenna poles will be subjected to this treatment in the future, according to Walter C. Evans, superintendent of radio operations.

CROSLEYS ARE IN DEMAND FOR WORLD SERIES

The approach of the world series championship baseball games is bringing a heavy demand for Crosley radios, according to Joe Wilson, of the Stock Jewelry Radio store.

The world series between the Chicago Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics starts October 8 and baseball fans are buying their radios now so they may become thoroughly familiar with the operation of the set and be all ready when the big moment arrives.

"Crosley Screen Grid radios," Wilson said, "will add a touch of realism to the base ball broadcast this year that has never before existed. For the first time in the history of radio the screen grid tube and the screen grid circuit will bring the voice of the announcer to the radio owner sounding exactly as it does when it enters the microphone. This is due to the fact that screen grid tubes eliminate distortion while the Crosley circuit completely controls the tube's tremendous power. Screen grid tubes are from 10 to 20 times as powerful as any other tubes ever manufactured.

instrument of outstanding performance because of the very size of the institution that creates it—Radio Corporation of America.

The vast resources available to Radio Corporation of America are responsible for the perfection of this remarkably fine radio—for R. C. A. occupies the leading position in the radio field today.

Millions of dollars have been spent by R. C. A. for radio patents, exclusively owned and controlled. It is carrying on a system of communication of radio telegraph with 30 different countries, representing an approximate cost of $20,000,000. It employs more than 1,000 engineers for constant radio research.

But, after all, it is impossible to picture in such limited space the scope, the magnitude, of R. C. A. The important point to you is this: only such an organization can make the very best radio that modern science can produce.

Each Member Of Radio Board Has His Own Duties

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A general reorganization of the federal radio commission was recently made, with the naming of new committees and the assignments of individual members to special duties.

Committees have been appointed to oversee such subjects as planning and publicity, hearings, courts, legislation, budget and personnel. Individual members have been placed in charge of distinct divisions. Hearings ordinarily will be conducted by a member of the hearings committee, or by an examiner assigned to do this. The commissioner or examiner will report the evidence for decision by the full membership of the commission. Eugene O. Sykes was appointed chairman of this committee. Heretofore as many members attended the meetings as could be present.

The radio industry has reached the stage where it now employs more than 350,000 people and represents an investment of more than four billion dollars.

direct to New York, where each system will distribute the signals to its network. This arrangement will work as well for Chicago as for Philadelphia, for it is only through New York that the relay of distant programs can be effected.

Each of the systems expects to have some 60-odd stations broadcasting the baseball descriptions, although the exact number of relay stations will not be known until the last day. At any rate, both systems announce that the world series will go by radio to the entire country and even into Canada. Thus Canada, for the first time, will get a taste of world series baseball.

Chicago Stations Try

Besides these two large broadcasting systems, individual stations in Chicago are trying to get into the baseball park to have their own announcers describe the games for their own fans. WGN, for one, is planning to have Quin Ryan, well known in the middle west, as this station's sports announcer, at a special mike in the press stand. At any rate, Quin Ryan will be there and if WGN can't get its own mike installed for direct connection to the main broadcasting station, Ryan is expected to pitch hit for McNamee at the NBC mike at intervals.

Besides WGN, other stations like WENR, WMAQ and WLS, are expected to participate in the broadcasting, if not directly at least through either of the NBC networks or the Columbia system.

In addition, those local stations both in Chicago and Philadelphia that will not be part of the NBC or Columbia system will broadcast reports of the games received in their studios by telegraph. Other stations outside these cities and not connected with the networks will do likewise, so that it is expected that at least three-fourths of the broadcasting at the time of the games will be concerned with the world series.

Games Start Early

The series begins in Chicago on Tuesday, October 8, at 1:30 central standard time. Broadcasting will begin a half hour before game time, to continue through to the end.

The second game of the series will also be in Chicago and at the same time of day. The next two games will be Friday and Saturday, October 11 and 12 at 1:30 eastern standard time, broadcasting starting at 1.

Should further games be necessary, the series will be resumed in Philadelphia on Monday, October 1, since baseball is not permitted in the Quaker City on Sunday. The final two games of the series of seven, if made necessary, will be played in Chicago on Wednesday and Thursday, October 16 and 17.

A peculiar coincidence this year, that has not happened before, is the clashing of two important football games with the world series.

NEW MEASURES ARE EYED BY ENGINEERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—So that legislation involving radio and wire control now pending in congress may be studied, a committee of experts has been appointed by the American engineering council. The chairman of the committee is Edwin F. Wendt, of Washington, D. C. Other members are O. H. Caldwell, former federal radio commissioner, of New York; Dean Dexter S. Kimball, of Cornell university; Frank A. Scott, of Cleveland, and Charles B. Hawley, of Washington, D. C.

"Fundamental questions are involved in the bills of Senators Watson and Couzens, now pending in congress," said Arthur W. Berensford, president of the American engineering council.

"The ultimate purpose of both is to establish a commission somewhat like the interstate commerce commission, but which would have supervision of radio, telephone and telegraph. Do such media of communication require by public interest need additional supervision and regulation? Is it in the public interest to create another commission?"

"The purpose of the Couzens' bill is to regulate all forms of interstate and foreign radio transmission communication within the United States, its territories, and possessions. This is to be accomplished through a commission of five men."

U. S. RADIO LEADER

In addition to having more radio stations than all the rest of the world combined, the United States broadcasts on far more power than other countries. Several American stations have 50,000 watts rating. The nearest foreign approach to that is station RAI, in Moscow, which has 40,000 watts power.

les schedule on Saturday, October 12. Radio fans who are both football and baseball enthusiasts, however, will not be denied their reports of these games.

Two Big Grid Games

The Saturday football games are scheduled between the Navy and Notre Dame at Baltimore and between Yale and Georgia at Athens, Ga. A special telegraph wire to the press box in Philadelphia and Chicago will bring bulletin reports of these games to McNamee of the NBC system and he will relay them at intervals to his fans.

If the Saturday baseball game has to be postponed on account of rain, however, the NBC networks will take over the football games direct from their respective fields. NBC announcers have been assigned both to Baltimore and Athens to take care of this eventuality.

Preparations have also been made to describe the remaining halves of these football games direct from Baltimore and Athens. Immediately after the world series game ends, in this case NBC officials say the Navy-Notre Dame game will go over WJZ network and the Yale-Georgia game will be broadcast over the WEAJ chain.

hibition hall, through which the public could watch the performers before the microphone. The sound from the studio was distributed on the three floors occupied by the exhibition by newly developed loudspeakers of the condenser type. The programs were also broadcast by station WEAJ and a chain of more than twenty associated stations. Artists broadcast throughout the day and evening. Programs were broadcast by both the National Broadcasting and the Columbia chain.

Only one television set was shown, an apparatus developed by the engineers of the Radio corporation.

Television Demonstrated

The pictures were shown on a ground glass screen one foot square, and the spectators not only saw the actors sing and act but they heard their voices as well. The voices of the actors were picked up by a microphone and transmitted to a loudspeaker near the television screen.

The stage of the actors and the screen were so arranged that the spectators could compare the original scene and the received image to enable them to judge of the progress that has been made. The system is due to Dr. E. F. W. Alexanderson, consulting engineer of the General Electric company and the Radio Corporation of America.

Oliver Shea, WABC soprano and dramatic artist, was the guest of the management of the exhibition having been selected as the most beautiful staff radio artist in America from among more than 150 entries covering the entire country.

The judges in this contest were Florenz Ziegfeld, theatrical showman; McClelland Barclay, New York artist; Victor Frisch, sculptor; Jesse Hawley, former football coach and now vice-president of the United Reproducers corporation, Rochester, and Morris Metcalf, treasurer of the American Bosch Magneto corporation, Springfield, Mass.

NO ACCOMPANIMENT

The Apollo Male quartet of WBBM, Chicago, has a mark of distinction which classes it as a real quartet. The members refuse to sing with orchestral accompaniment. They claim accompaniment spoils real harmony in singing.

BREA

BREA, Oct. 3.—Miss Marie Beck and Miss Nondys Smith chaperoned a group of Camp Fire girls, who motored to Los Angeles and attended ceremonial exercises at Occidental college Saturday evening. Those making up the party were Clara Simonsen, Nina Fetting, Dorothy Reardon, Gwendolyn Shipley, Helen Hay, Blanche Crabill, Beulah Bush, Barbara Bennett, Joy Beishe and Jessie Anderson.

Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and little daughter, Sarah, of Ventura were week-end visitors in Brea.

They visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elsworth Phillips. Mrs. Phillips and Mrs. Smith are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Shipley and daughter, Gwendolyn, and Miss Dorothy Reardon, of the Stearns lease, motored to Los Angeles and attended a theater Sunday evening. Miss Mildred Murray and Harry Branch motored to Long Beach Sunday and visited in the home of Mr. Branch's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. James Forbes attended a surprise birthday bridge party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Miller in Placentia Monday evening.

Down, down they fell and Scouty said, "Oh, try to save us. Go ahead and flap your wings. My shoes may help to keep us in the air. I've fallen to the ground before. I never want to any more. We don't need what's below us. We may land most anywhere."

"Oh, very well," the bird replied. And then to flap his wings he tried. They flapped all right, but didn't seem to do one bit of good. "It is no use," he finally snapped. "My wings have flapped and flapped and flapped. I'm sorry I can't help us out. I've done the best I could."

"It's all your fault we're in this fix. You pulled one of your clever tricks by grabbing me right by the tail. Why don't you let me go? Then you can float upon your shoes. Come on, there is no time to lose. Remember that the ground is mighty hard, far, far below."

Then Scouty said, "Oh, no! You took poor Clowny's wooden shoe and look what trouble it has brought you. I am going to hang on tight. If we must land, all right, we will. You ought to take a thumping spill. It surely won't be long now till the land below's in sight."

"Oh, I can see something right now," the lollybird exclaimed. "Gee, how can we avoid a sudden plop. This whole affair is rash." And then the bird heard Scouty scream. "We're heading for a winding stream." It wasn't but a moment till they landed there, kersplash!

(Scouty forgives the lollybird in the next story.)

EVENING SALUTATION

"No obedience to moral rules can take the place of love, and that where love is genuine, it will, if combined with intelligence, suffice to generate whatever moral rules are necessary."

—Bertrand Russell.

A VOTE ON THE "FLEXIBLE" TARIFF

The tariff bill which is before the Senate for action, has had an amendment added to it, providing that no longer shall the President have the power to change the tariff upon any articles after Congress has fixed the date.

This is a matter which may be argued from either side, and may very largely be determined in the last analysis from the standpoint of a personality—the character, the ability and the backbone of the chief executive. The majority of the United States Senate felt that the tariff upon imports should be definitely known and fixed by Congress. If any change was needed, they thought that the representatives of the people in the legislative branch of the government should make that change.

Those who urge that the executive should have the power to make changes within certain limits point to possible emergencies that arise, changes in the cost of manufacturing, the discovery of new supplies of the particular article, or possibly a hundred different reasons that may affect the cost of the article laid down in the ports of our country. A scientific tariff commission, if we can imagine such a commission possible, might be well entrusted with the fixing of the tariff at all times.

But those who object to the chief executive having this power, feel undoubtedly the influence of certain forces upon one individual, subtle in their nature, and overwhelming in their power, which would adversely affect the interest of thousands of consumers.

There has no President sat in the White House in recent years in whom we have more confidence than we have in President Hoover. We feel that if there is any man who could be trusted with such a responsibility as this, Hoover has demonstrated that he is the man. But when laws are passed, they cannot be passed in contemplation of any particular individual occupying any particular office. For the death of a single man changes the whole nature of affairs, when we are depending on a particular individual holding the office, and the life of a single individual is a bad thing for a nation to bet heavily on. This power in the hands of the President has been but of short duration. The whole period of our tariff history has been fixed and certain. We shall go back to that period.

The way these 18-day diets for the ladies work out is that the husband usually loses about 24 pounds.

THOSE TROUBLESOME DOUKHO-BORS

When Canada gave welcome to the religious sect of Doukhobors she thought she was welcoming some twentieth century Pilgrims or Puritans. As a matter of fact she has on her hands a group of fanatical zealots who can be reached neither by law, nor by persuasion, nor by force. They insist on parading around without clothes on, and making a general nuisance of themselves by refusing to educate their children or to observe the most elementary sanitary regulations. They belong to the fanatical group which produced such a notorious character as Rasputin, who was responsible for the downfall of the Romanoffs.

The hardest people to deal with are the conscientious zealots and fanatics who claim to be acting under the guidance of the Almighty, and who presume to be his favorites. Personally they may be men and women of integrity and the most honest in their dealings with one another and with the world in general. But there are certain social standards which society cannot condone. The Mormons had a great many virtues which might well be emulated by religious people of many other faiths. But their system of polygamy was not only an anachronism, but led to the general demoralization. For that reason polygamy was put down. For the same reason, the Doukhobors in Vancouver need to be corrected by something more than gentle persuasion. There are some things which cannot be tolerated even in the name of religion. And parading around naked like animals is one of them.

MRS. COOLIDGE'S $250 POEM

A national news service gives out information concerning a poem written by Mrs. Coolidge for the Good Housekeeping Magazine, composed of a few more than a dozen lines, 92 words to be exact, for which the editor sent her $250. That was a good sum. Still, for a good poem it is none too high. George W. Childs gave Whittier $1000 for The Captain's Well. But in those days anything from Whittier was eagerly read. That, we suspect, gives value to the poem by Mrs. Coolidge, rather than any high literary merit.

But it suggests the small compensation received by some of our most famous writers. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe received only $300 for the serial rights of Uncle Tom's Cabin and for the book rights too. Milton received 35 pounds for his immortal Paradise Lost. Similar instances could be multiplied.

All of which goes to show that it is quite as much the fame of the writer as the worth of the production which determines the price the publisher is willing to pay. The sentiment of Mrs. Coolidge's poem is sweet and tender. It is a mother's tribute to a departed son. But it was the fact that Mrs. Coolidge wrote it that made it worth $250.

A JUST STAND

We were surprised in reading the dispatches in the Shearer investigation, to learn that William Randolph Hearst had been employing him at $2000.00 per month, to write articles and to work against the League of Nations and the World Court. But it appears on further investigation that Hearst knew nothing of Shearer's employment by the three shipbuilding companies for spreading propaganda. This had been a secret matter. He had been misled just as the millions of other people had been misled, and hence, believing that Shearer was the capable man that he appeared to be, without any ulterior purposes, he employed him. It is interesting to note a sentence or two in the letter dismissing Mr. Shearer. Colonel Frank Knox, general manager of the Hearst newspapers, said:

In view of the fact that we were totally unaware of your financial arrangements with the shipbuilding companies, under which you were paid a salary for certain propaganda work you were doing for them, and inasmuch as this arrangement of yours, which you now for the first time make public, obviously destroys your usefulness as a newspaper man associated with independent newspapers, we wish to notify you we do not wish to accept any further news articles or contributions from you for publication in the columns of our papers or to continue your employment in any capacity in connection with our newspapers.

We have had occasion to criticize Mr. Hearst and his newspapers, and we will unhesitatingly do it in the future as occasion may arise, but in this matter we feel that justice demands that the facts be stated, and Mr. Hearst, in referring to it in a personal statement, gave some fundamental truths in regard to newspapers. He said, among other things:

The methods of newspaper procedure are obviously diametrically opposed to lobbying. There is no secret in journalistic processes. In fact, what is sought by newspapers is NOT SECRECY BUT THE UTMOST PUBLICITY.

Japan's Dilemma

Fresno Morning Republican

His imperial highness, the sovereign of Japan, has another daughter, born to the empress.

The people of Japan, as is the custom in all monarchies, are unanimous in rejoicing in the family happiness of the emperor and empress.

But also, as is the habit of public language in monarchies, they are represented as being very much grieved because the child is not a son.

So that he could be the heir to the throne. Since it is purely a custom that the heir to the throne should be a son and not a daughter, why should not the people of Japan change their custom?

Or, if they cling to custom, what need of sorrow. The emperor of Japan could do as emperors have done for many ages when they found their wives useless. They could take into the palace a temporary wife, who when a son had been born would be dismissed.

If custom is to be worshiped, why not be complete in making use of its service?

Or, if custom is to be disregarded, why keep any more of the past than what is useful?

Japan, it is notorious, is not ruled by its emperor, but by the group of elder statesmen. An empress regnant could be just as useful a puppet as an emperor.

While if the ruler is to be actual, Japan has but to remember the empress dowager of China, who actually ruled for so many years.

To say nothing of the Elizabeths and Catherine and Maria Theresas of Europe.

What They Paid For?

Oakland Tribune

Whatever else may be said of William Shearer, he has discovered a market for literary work done in a style long considered outworn. The old perverted, spread-eagle sentences, which meant little save the author was excited and seeking to outdo himself, passed out of the picture with individual journalism and soapbox oratory, yet Shearer has rescued them and sold them to hard-headed men of business.

At least this is a sample of the stuff he turned out last year while in the employ of manufacturers of armor-plate:

"The crucible that once produced red blood and sturdy hearts will surely give us a leader, a Paul Revere, sounding the alarm and riding like hell over these Babylonian architects who would take us from the sea, and who are spreading the cloak of Benedict Arnold over the younger generation and driving seditious nails into the cross of national crucifixion."

Shearer turned that out, not to express himself, but in an effort to earn the salary which somewhat miraculously, if we are to credit the testimony, was bestowed upon him. In the meantime others who write in the style get not a cent of reward. It would be interesting to know just how much of the $25,000 was earned by the above quotation.

Head Rests For Giraffes

New York Times

When Samuel Finley Breese Morse flashed the immortal exclamation across the first telegraph line, at least one of its later uses did not occur to him. The story comes from Africa, by way of a Science Service leaflet issued at Washington. It is that frequent breaks occurring in telegraph lines have been traced to giraffes which use the wires for head rests.

The problem thus presented to African linesmen is serious. Uninformed comment would be that the wires should be lowered to a point where giraffes cannot lean upon them while gazing meditatively across the veldt. But how about rhinoceroses and hippopotami? If they leaned on a wire the damage would obviously be heavier than in the case of a giraffe. And if the wires were placed even lower, they would be at the mercy of hartbeest, antelope, jackal and agouti.

The British Empire is a powerful organism, but we should suppose that this question of how high to string telegraph wires in Africa would prove too much for its engineers. If only there were a political campaign going on now in Tanganyika, or wherever the giraffes are leaning, one candidate or another would be sure to advocate putting the wires underground. That might become the issue.

LOOKING AHEAD

When our loftiest skyscrapers crumble
And lie in the wind-scattered dust,
Some man of the future may stumble
On a column encrusted with rust;
And murmur "These primitive races
With lofty ambition were filled
Of which there are still feeble traces
But they never could learn how to build."

When our speediest air-ships are shattered
And their battered and broken remains,
Like the leaves of the forest, are scattered
Far forth over mountain and plains,
Some man of ten thousand and forty
The time-eaten fragments will eye
And mutter: "Those ancients were sporty,
But they never could learn how to fly."

If our law books survive through the ages
And some man, in an eon or two
Takes a glance at the yellowing pages
And runs a few passages through;
It must with regret be admitted
That the only conclusion he'd draw
Is that we of this age are thick-witted
When it comes to a knowledge of law.

We sneer at the folk who before us
Went out with an axe made of stone
And fought with the ichthyosaurus—
A creature at present unknown;
And the men who shall dwell in our places
More than ten thousand years from today
Will call us the primitive races
And poke fun at us, the same way.

The Gulf Between Labor and Capital

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

The Bolsheviks who were caught recently in China conspiring to overthrow the Chinese Government explained that they were merely trying to destroy capitalism. Even in this country, there are aliens who are merely trying to do that. They are cussing capitalism in seventy-six different languages.

Why did they come to this country? Chiefly because of our high standard of living. And how was that achieved? Through capitalism. Achieved because people saved money and invested it—invested it in the hope of receiving interest and dividends.

Unless some people, some time in the past, had saved and founded a safe social order in which to invest their savings, we should all be fighting wild beasts with our bare hands, traveling in mud, and lighting our dismal dug-outs with candles.

That is why we should try to induce everybody to save and invest—that is, become capitalists.

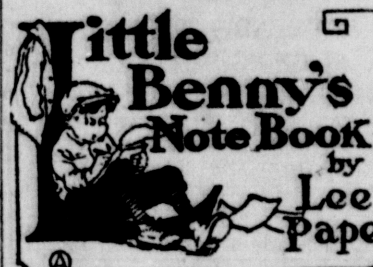

We cannot get along without labor. We cannot get along without capital. We should all become laborers. We should all become capitalists.

The war brought us nearer to that goal, for it shoved many idlers into action, and it created several million more capitalists—owners of Government bonds. In the past few years other millions of workers have become capitalists through the purchase of stocks.

These new owners of industry understand that every time they clip a coupon or receive a dividend they are reaping the just rewards of their thrift, and that all rewards for thrift depend on protection of private property and respect for law.

Some day the gulf between labor and capital may become an imaginary line.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

THE AQUARIUM AGE

To amuse my son as he lay in the hospital with two broken arms, I brought to his bedside a dozen tiny tropical fish in a transparent glass container.

As I watched with him these agile little creatures feed and frisk about, they and their transparent container seemed to me to symbolize the age in which we are living.

Everywhere life tends to grow less private and more public.

We moderns can say, with a depth of feeling that Wordsworth could not know, "The world is too much with us....We have given our hearts away....For this....we are out of tune."

The ends of the earth touch and tremble with mutual stimulus. From birth to marriage to death, all significant steps in our lives are registered.

The public has taken our health in hand. Governments peer into and make public our personal incomes.

The press parades our private affairs in headlines. The telephone jangles in our ear and the world invades at will library or boudoir.

And in a little while television will tear down or make transparent the very walls of our dwellings.

This wholesale robbing of the race of its privacy may have an unsuspected effect upon the happiness and effectiveness of mankind.

It is a matter of common psychological observation that the average man does not work as well when watched. There are many able men who work with rare effectiveness when alone, but become blunderers in the presence of other people.

All of us who have suffered stage fright when "speaking pieces" as children know the soundness of this psychological observation. In private rehearsal we "spoke our piece" perfectly, but before the crowd we were tongue-tied.

As we become citizens of a sort of aquarium age, in which we swim about under peering eyes like my son's tropical fish, we may as a people suffer a kind of modified chronic stage fright that will reduce our efficiency and lend an air of artificiality to our entire lives.

That this is not sheer speculation is evident from the fact that certain psychological researches suggest that nearly half the human race works best in measurable privacy.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

TRAINING TO HONESTY

We are not born honest. We acquire honesty with painful pangs. I have said that we learn honesty in pain. And that few of us attain it. There isn't a day goes by but what we depart from our own sternest ideal of honesty. Yet we are indignant when we are faced by the fact.

The best we can do is to try with all our might to hold to the ideal of honesty in thought, word and deed. To teach by word and example that honesty is fundamental to sane living, to happiness and success.

Teach a child that it is better to remain silent than to speak dishonestly. Silence is no sin. Lying is. Teach him to do without rather than borrow another's goods. Abstinence is no error, but borrow is first cousin to one. Teach a child to pay his debts. Self denial is a virtue, but self indulgence is a grievous fault. Teach a child to say what he means, to do a thorough job, to act sincerely in every walk of life.

I do not say that the child will learn these lessons easily. He will get an idea, though, that there is an ideal of honesty toward which he must strive or be counted less than worthy. It is that idea that will save him. It was that idea that saved you and me as far as we are saved.

We say very glibly, "I want my child to be honest," as though it were as easy as having one's hair cut. Learning to be honest is a life career. You are doing much if you train a child toward it, point out the direction, set him a good example. If you do that you do well.

"O, but—" you will say, "that"

FAMOUS HISTORIAN BORN

Today is the 129th anniversary of the birth of George Bancroft, famous American historian.

Bancroft was born at Worcester, Mass., Oct. 3, 1800, the son of Rev. Aaron Bancroft, a Unitarian clergyman.

He entered Harvard college at 13 and upon graduation went to Göttingen, where he took the Ph. D. in history.

His great work was "The History of the United States" of which the first volume appeared in 1854 and the tenth 40 years later.

Bancroft was appointed secretary of the navy by President Polk and his management was marked by the establishment of the naval academy at Annapolis, which was devised and organized on his sole initiative by an ingenious straining of executive authority.

He was minister to Prussia in 1867, to the North German Confederation in 1868 and to the new German Empire in 1871.

Among the more important of his many miscellaneous publications were "History of the Colonizations of the United States," "The Necessity, the Reality, and the Promise of the Progress of the Human Race," "Memorial Address on Abraham Lincoln," "A Plea for the Constitution of the United States" and "Martin Van Buren."

Bancroft died in Washington, D. C., Jan. 17, 1891.
